Hint Collusion of Men and Road Responsible for Tie-Up of New York's Traffic

LACKING "L" CARS MILLIONS WALK

May Start Probe to See if Strike Were Started to Procure Fare Increase

Surface Lines and Trains Make Greatest Traffic Snarl Ever Known

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Forced to reach its offices by devious routes in a rain storm from which "waterproofs" and umbrellas offered little protection, commercial New York entered the second day of its traction strike with resentment in its heart.

With subway and elevated routes completely tied up, the city's millions this morning battled their way into such surface cars as were running or into busses and moving vans hastily organized into semblance of a transportation system.

Shopmen at Work Makes Old Schedules Possible

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—Restoration of all suburban trains and a majority of the through trains, cancelled by the strike of New England railroad mechanics and shopmen on Aug. 7 and 8, virtually gave patrons of the Boston & Maine lines normal passenger service today. On the N. Y. N. H. & H. road, the South Shore runs and New York trains, except the "Kaleckerbocker Express" and the "Merchants Limited" were resumed but pre-strike schedules were not expected before Thursday. The Boston & Albany, which maintained nearly normal service during the strike, announced the return of parlor cars and dining cars tomorrow.

Managers of the New Haven system said the striking employees of the western section who voted to return today had resumed their places as had the cabinet-makers and mill men of the Boston Metropolitan district who struck independently of the others for similar wage demands. Freight service on all lines was expected to become normal before the end of the week.

Freight Embargo Lifted

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Passenger service on the N.Y. N.H. & H.R.R. returned today to virtually a normal basis after the strike of railroad shopmen, who walked out nearly two weeks ago. All passenger trains are being restored as fast as possible, official said, and they should be in regular operation within two or three days.

The freight embargo on the New Haven and Central New England Railroads was further lifted today.

FATALLY INJURED

Henri Ferron Dies as Result of Fractured Skull

Henri Ferron, of 1 Stack place, died at St. John's hospital yesterday morning from a compound fracture of the skull, which he received Saturday night at the corner of Fletcher and Worthen streets when he fell on the sidewalk.

The man was found in an unconscious condition lying on the sidewalk, by pedestrians, who administered first aid in an effort to revive him. Later the police officer was notified and the man was sent to the police station and subsequently to St. John's hospital where he died without regaining his senses.

The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons, where it was viewed by Assistant Medical Examiner Alling. The only clue to the identity of the man is a letter found in his pocket, which was addressed to "Mr. Ferron" and which was written by Mrs. Catherine W. Clark, of 101 Main street, Springfield, Me. A relative today identified the victim as Henri Ferron, of 1 Stack place, off Salem street.

EXCITING AUTO CHASE

Officer Seizes Car and Speeds

After Flivver—Driver Arrested—Later Released

After a spirited automobile chase through Merrimack street this morning the operator of a Ford car bearing a Massachusetts registration number, was arrested and brought to the police station by Traffic Officer Connors, but after being questioned by the chief of police, he was allowed to go.

The arrest was caused upon information received over the telephone by a motorman of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., Walter Goodrich, who operates one of the Boston electric trolleys through Tewksbury. Shortly after 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Goodrich telephoned to Starter Sears at the square that a Ford automobile bearing a Massachusetts registration, the first three numbers of which were 157, had struck a boy on the main road in Tewksbury Centre and the driver had fallen to stop his machine after the accident to find out the extent of the boy's injuries. Mr. Goodrich claimed that the little fellow, whose name could not be located, was pushing a little ice cart in the road when the accident occurred.

Starter Sears quickly informed Officer Connors of the message and the latter kept his eyes on all automobiles that went through the square, coming from Belvidere. Shortly before 10:30 o'clock Officer Connors saw a Ford car with a registration plate bearing the numbers 157 and he motioned to the driver to stop, but the latter, who did not see the motion, kept right on going up Merrimack street toward city hall. The police officer commanded another car and gave chase through Merrimack street, catching his man at city hall. The driver of the Ford car was taken to the police station, where he denied any knowledge of an accident in Tewksbury. The name and address of the man were taken and he was allowed to go pending further information concerning the alleged accident.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES BACK TO NORMAL

With the return to work of the striking car shop employees of the Boston and Maine road on Saturday, Lowell's passenger and freight traffic, which has been temporarily curtailed, today swung back to normal and regular schedule. The slight embargo placed on goods shipped over New York, New Haven and Hartford lines by the American Express company also was lifted today.

With the rumors of a strike about two weeks ago, it was generally believed that such a move by the car shop men would shortly produce a serious condition of railroad affairs, but aside from the abandonment of six passenger trains between this city and Boston and a reduction of freight carrying facilities about 25 per cent, the railroad was not forced to adopt any stringent measures.

All ex-service men earnestly requested to be present. Applications for testimonials granted by the State of Massachusetts will be issued at this meeting.

NO INCREASE IN WATER RATES

Commissioner Morse Emphatically Denies Report of Contemplated Boost

Declares More Water Being Obtained This Year Than Ever Before

There will be no further increase in the water rates in Lowell this year, according to an emphatic statement made this morning by Commissioner Charles J. Morse in denial of the report that such an increase was contemplated.

"There will be no increase and no increase has been contemplated," said Commissioner Morse, "and you can put that just as strongly as you want. With the increase that was put into effect early in the year there is no reason why the water department cannot be self-sustaining by next year. More water is being obtained this year than ever before in the history of the department and 32 new wells have been installed. The Cook well plant which was costing the city $700 a week has been shut down and will not be reopened this year. The water rates should have been raised long ago, but it was not until this year that they were raised. The improvements that have been made have cost money, but the department is now giving the citizens of Lowell more and better water than ever before."

MORSE SWINGS AXE

70 Employees of Water Department Laid Off to Overcome Deficit

About 70 employees of the water department were laid off this morning by Commissioner Charles J. Morse, in accordance with a recommendation made last week by City Auditor J. Joseph Hennessy that the commissioner reduce his payroll so as to save $1000 weekly for a period of eight weeks.

The majority of those whose employment was discontinued were members of the machine shop force, while the rest were from the various outside gangs of the department. The commissioner reduced the working gangs one-half and the men who were retained this week will be laid off next week so as to give the others a week's employment.

The reduction is made so that the present deficit in the department may be overcome as much as possible.

A. G. CUMNOCK DIES SUDDENLY

Was Prominent Citizen and Dean of Cotton Manufacturing Industry

One of Founders of Textile School—Died at Pride's Crossing—Sketch of Career

Lowell loses one of its most prominent citizens and the cotton manufacturing industry in New England its oldest and ablest constructionist in the death of Alexander G. Cumnock, which occurred yesterday morning at the summer home of his daughter, Mrs. John Wood Blodgett, at Pride's Crossing, Beverly. Death came after an illness of only a few hours. He was in his 85th year.

Not only did Mr. Cumnock's hand mold much of the foundation of

ALEXANDER G. CUMNOCK

Lowell's world renowned industrial structure, but he was also the guiding spirit, originator and one of the founders of the Lowell Textile school, an institution which has fitted many young men for a manufacturing life in the mills, which had been his business home for so many years.

At the time of his death, Mr. Cumnock occupied the position of treasurer of the Appleton company of this city, an office held by him for 21 years. During his stewardship of the corporation, it developed from a worn out shell to an active, prominent manufacturing plant. The present mill buildings were erected under his supervision.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN MISSING FROM HOME

Thomas O'Malley, a Civil War veteran, residing at 33 Pine Hill street, has been missing from home since Saturday afternoon and his relatives have notified the police of the fact. Mr. O'Malley was 74 years old and when last seen about 11:30 Saturday morning wore a dark soft hat, blue coat and vest and grey trousers. He bore a scar on his right cheek and was grey-haired. Up until recently he had lived at 71 Whipple street and it is thought that he might have become confused in finding his new home after the first time he left it. The police were notified Saturday evening.

RUSH TO BUY ARMY FOOD

Local People Take Advantage of Uncle Sam's Bargain Sale at Postoffice

Men, Women and Children Place Orders for Food—To be Delivered by Parcel Post

Hundreds of Lowell housewives took in the bargain sale of government foodstuffs at the post office today and placed orders for so many cans or cases of this or that commodity, which will be delivered to them by parcel post in a few days. And not alone the housewives, but the husbands, brothers and sisters came too, all eager to take a crack at old high cost of living.

The hours at which orders will be received are, as previously stated, from 9 until 12 in the morning, and from 2 to 4:30 in the afternoon. The sale will continue until Wednesday night, and it is to be judged from the brisk business of today, the thousands of pounds of canned goods which include can beans, peas, bacon, beef, hash, soups, tomatoes, etc., will be entirely disposed of by that time.

As was seen by the price lists published in this paper last week the prices on the various articles are much lower than one would be asked to pay when ordering foodstuffs from a retail or wholesale provision store, and this fact has appealed to the Lowell folks who flocked to the post office in a steady stream today during the hours of the sale.

The demand for canned peas and corn was the feature of the sale today, although the 12-pound cans of bacon also sold well. Prospective purchasers were told that small orders were as acceptable as larger ones, and although many people placed orders for a few cans of one or more of the various foodstuffs, the greater majority said: "Well, I guess I'll have a case of this and a case of that," and that was all there was to it.

The pre-arranged system of handling the orders worked out to perfection, according to Postmaster Meehan. Two windows adjacent to the stamp windows are being utilized for the sale, and the two genial clerks on duty there took the customers' orders, tabulated them, and directed the purchasers to the money order cashier, who gives a duplicate of the requisition and a receipt for the cash, which must accompany the transaction. More clerks will be put on should the amount of business require it, Postmaster Meehan said.

The orders received will be forwarded to the government supply base in South Boston each day, and the goods shipped as expeditiously as possible to the local postoffice where they will be distributed to the consumer by parcel post. Consumers will not have to carry home their supply of goods no matter how large the order as the parcel post facilities will be increased to handle the extra work.

The postmaster has received many inquiries regarding the proposed sale of army blankets through the parcel post, but as yet he has received no information regarding it. It is thought that the blankets may be placed on sale later in the month, however.

"First come, first served," is the postmaster's maxim during this sale, and he advises local folks to place their orders as soon as possible, in order to avoid being too late. If there are any orders which cannot be filled, due to the supply apportioned to this city becoming exhausted, the money paid in will be refunded at the post office.

Very few cases of "hogging" were noted during the day; some folks seemed to think that there was no limit to the supply which could be ordered, and were asked to keep their orders down to a reasonable amount. But these instances were few. All in all, the sale went along with smoothness and precision, and Postmaster Meehan believes that before Wednesday night arrives the local consignment will have been completely taken up, or at least very nearly so.

The foodstuffs which may be ordered at the Lowell post office, the prices of which were published in this paper on Friday and Saturday are: Baked beans, stringless beans, corned beef, roast beef, sweet corn, cherries, corned beef hash, green peas, black pepper, vegetable soup, tomatoes and bacon. In addition to these canned goods, orders will also be taken for 100-pound bags of flour, rice and dry beans.

Members of Lowell Council, Knights of Columbus, will please meet at the house of our late brother, Henry Mahoney, 7 Wilson street, North Billerica this evening at 9 o'clock. Brother Mahoney was a member of Holyoke Council.

KING'S SON IN HALIFAX

City Gives Heir to Throne Greatest Reception Ever Accorded Visitor

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 19.—Welcomed by a royal salute from the citadel, the Prince of Wales, who arrived here yesterday from St. John, N. B., debarked from the battle cruiser Renown at 10 o'clock this morning to be formally received by a guard of honor from the royal Canadian garrison artillery and escorted by the provincial building. The booming of guns in the citadel informed the city that the prince had come ashore and as he stepped off the marble slab which marked the landing of the late King Edward VII, the royal standard was broken out from the landing stage masthead. Premier Murray, Lieut. Gov. Grant, officials of the city and officers of Italian and French warships greeted the royal visitor. The prince, in his reply to addresses made in behalf of the provincial and Halifax governments, referred to "the modest part which I was to play in the great war."

Addresses from the government of the province and from the city of Halifax were presented to the prince at exercises in the provincial building. He made brief replies of acceptance and then with his official party began a tour of the city.

Through streets gaily decorated and banked by crowds which jammed every point of vantage, the prince rode to a demonstrative welcome. He was loudly cheered miles. After visiting that portion of the city which was devastated by the great explosion in 1917, the prince called at the military hospitals and later inspected organizations of the British veterans, the cadets and boy scouts.

Sir Robert Borden, premier of Canada, who accompanied the Prince of Wales here from St. John, N. B., will be unable to participate in any functions arranged in honor of the royal visitor until the party reaches Quebec, it was announced today.

The premier sprained his ankle so severely last night that he has been ordered by his private physicians to spend several days in bed. He attempted to attend the reception to the prince here this morning, but was forced to give up the effort.

CARRANZA NOTE ORDERS ACTION

$15,000 Ransom Money May be on Way to Mexico Now to Save Officers' Lives

Seizing. Uniformed. Men Makes Offence Grave—May Demand Reparation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Vigorous representations were made to the Mexican government today by the state department concerning the capture and detention of two American army aviators by bandits, who demand $15,000 ransom.

This announcement was made by Secretary Lansing. It also was announced that a complete statement, including details of the capture of the two officers and particulars regarding the representations made by the American government, would be given to the public later.

The announcement when finally issued was as follows:

"The department of state has telegraphed instructions to the American embassy at Mexico City to immediately call upon the Mexican government for quick action to effect the release of Lieuts. Paul H. Davis and Harold G. Peterson of the United States army air service, captured by Mexican bandits near Candelaria, Tex., while patrolling the border, and threatened with death today upon failure to pay $15,000 ransom."

"The instructions pointed out the seriousness with which the United States government views this situation and called for immediate adequate action. The department also directed the American consul at Juarez, Mexico, to take all possible steps with the Mexican authorities there to secure release and protection of the officers."

"The attention of the department was called to the Davis case late last night by Representative Barbour

BRITISH TRIBUTE WAS 200 BILLION

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The war cost forty billion pounds, Premier Lloyd George declared in his speech in the house of commons today on the financial and industrial situation. Most of this sum was spent for the purposes of destruction.

The premier asserted that the changing from war to peace conditions would take just as long as the change from peace to war. The first outstanding fact of the present situation was the alarming adverse trade balance.

SEA MUST YIELD HOARD OF GOLD

English Adventurers Turn
Next to Sunken Treasure
Ships With War Thrill Gone

Science May Aid Fight to
Recover Paul Kruger's
Millions

LONDON, Aug. 2. (Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—To recover more than $3,000,000 in gold, part of the fortune of the late Oom Paul Kruger, once president of the Transvaal, which is believed to be cemented in the hold of the bark Dorothea, sunk on Tenedos reef, off the coast of Zuluiland, is one of the projects which may be revived as a result of improvement in the science of salvaging sunken ships. The Dorothea is named among the list of wrecks of eight treasure ships located off the African coast which are regarded by one leading expert as mostly likely for salvage.

The gold in the Dorothea is reported to have been shipped by Kruger some time prior to 1904. He was once credited with a fortune of $3,750,000. Some years ago, a syndicate was organized to attempt its recovery and a government steamer, the Alfred Noble, was sent to do the work of salvage, but failed.

Now that the war is over, men not content with the ordinary rewards of peace-time industry are planning to renew the great adventure of seeking to salvage gold from the wrecks of treasure ships long since lost. The science of salvaging sunken vessels has reached the point where some experts believe the fabled wealth of the ocean's bed brought to the surface. Wrecks of treasure ships lost more than 100 years ago, are being located and preparations are being made to bring in bits of precious metal to the surface.

Captain A. P. Gardiner, a salvage expert, has located 38 hulls of sunken vessels off the coast of South Africa, and believes that one-quarter of them may be redeemed. Eight of the ships selected as susceptible of salvage, with their location and value of contents, are given as follows: The Grosvenor, on the Pendoland coast, $3,750,000; Arlston, Marcus bay, $4,000,000; Birkenhead, Birkenhead reef, $3,500,000; Atlas, East coast, $3,500,000; Dorothea, Tenedos reef, $3,250,000; Thunderbolt, Thunderbolt reef, $2,750,000; Abercrombie, Black Rock, $200,000; and Meresteln, Jullion Island, $700,000.

GREEKS PLAN TO BUILD NEW SCHOOL

If plans drafted by the school board of the local Greek community are carried out, Lowell will soon have another handsome parochial school added to its already long list of private educational institutions. The Greek community is maintaining a private school at present, but the population of the district is increasing so fast that the need of a larger school or, an addition to the present one is being felt.

The Greek parochial school is located at the corner of Worthen street and Broadway, in the former Plunkett residence, which was purchased

The Greek community maintains its own schools at no expense whatever to the city.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Gaudette to
Celebrate Friday

Mr. and Mrs. Lectance E. Gaudette, two well known residents of this city, will observe their golden wedding next Friday, the program of the day to include a solemn high mass of thanksgiving at St. Jean Baptiste church at 3 o'clock in the morning, a dinner for the immediate relatives at the home of the couple, 34 West Bowers street, and reception in the evening in C.C.A. hall in Middle street. The reception will be public and a cordial invitation to attend is being extended the many friends and relatives of the venerable couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaudette, the latter formerly Miss Evelyn Labarge, were born in Canada. Mr. Gaudette is 75 years of age, while his wife is 10 years his junior. They both came to Lowell while still in their teens and were married in this city Aug. 22, 1865, the ceremony being performed at the immaculate Conception rectory by the late Rev. A. M. Garin, O.M.I. Mr. Gaudette was an iron moulder by trade and he worked at his craft until about 10 years ago when he retired.

Five children were born to the couple, four of whom are living, namely: Mr. Fred Gaudette, Mrs. Arthur Webb, Mrs. Oswald Turcotte and Mr. Alne Gaudette, all of this city. They also have 19 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"For one year I was miserable from a displacement, which caused a general run-down condition with headaches and pains in my side. My sister induced me to try Lydia E. Lewis, 30 Vernon Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Such conditions as Mrs. Lewis suffered from may be caused by a fall or a general weakened run-down condition of the system, and the most successful remedy to restore strength to muscles and tissue and bring about a normal healthy condition—has proved to be this famous root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The letters constantly being published from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

K. OF C. SPENT $9,550,000 IN CAMP OVERSEAS

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Disposition of the $17,000,000 received by the Knights of Columbus from the United War Work fund of $170,000,000 is shown in the report of the supreme board of directors of the organization for the fiscal year ending June 30, which has just been issued. The quota of the "Caseys" was $25,000,000. They also gave an accounting for $1,776,403 of their pre-drive fund, which was collected independently by them.

On June 30 the Knights had received from the War Drive fund $17,130,294.87, including salvage items and miscellaneous refunds. The disbursements of this were divided into $9,550,082.62 for activities overseas and $5,488,060.79 in this country, a total of $15,038,143.41, leaving an unexpected balance of $2,112,151.46. The monthly expenditure on war work approximated $2,000,000, so this balance has since been expended and requisitions made on the fund.

Of the $5,488,060.79 expended for activities in this country, $1,303,022.85 went over the program, including new construction and additions, rentals, operation, maintenance and equipment. The Knights had 178 buildings and 14 tents in the Eastern-Northeastern department, 89 buildings and five tents in the Southeastern department, 89 buildings and five tents in the South-eastern department, 182 buildings and seven tents in the Central-Southern department, and 42 buildings and six tents in the Western department, making a total of 461 buildings and 32 tents. Eleven buildings were being constructed at permanent army posts on June 30.

Personal expenses, including salaries, traveling expenses, uniforms and other equipment, but excluding headquarters staff, cost the Knights $1,045,639.11, for a total personnel of 1131. Activities of service program, including athletics and sports, motion pictures and other entertainments, educational, social and employment service, cost $145,629.

Overseas the Knights maintained 125 huts and clubs of substantial size while other more or less ephemeral clubs were equipped and maintained to bring the total number of K. C. points of contact with the troops to 250.

The Knights sent 1075 workers overseas out of a total of 7114 applicants. New York state led with 252, Massachusetts supplied 116, Illinois 93, Pennsylvania 61, Connecticut 40, Indiana 38. Every state in the union was represented in the overseas ranks.

BUSINESS MEN FOR PRIVATE OWNERSHIP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Business sentiment in the United States is unanimous that government ownership of railroads must not prevail, Charles A. Posst, chairman of the railroad commission of the United States chamber of commerce, told the house interstate commerce committee today.

Sentiment, as shown by tests made by the chamber, is overwhelmingly against proposals of the kind, he declared, because of the experience with government operation during the war. Other reasons against it, he contended, were heavy costs, and the necessity thereafter of financing government extensions through congressional appropriations with consequent subjection to political influence.

What to Use and Avoid On Faces That Perspire

Skin, to be healthy, must breathe. It also must perspire—just expel through the pores, its share of the body's waste material. Certain creams and powders clog the pores, interfering both with elimination and breathing, especially during the hot weather. If more women understood this, there would be fewer self-inflicted complexion troubles. If they would use ordinary mercolized wax instead of cosmetics they would have healthy complexions. This remarkable substance actually absorbs a bad skin, also unclogging the pores. Result: The fresher, younger, under-skin is permitted to breathe and to show itself. The exquisite new complexion gradually peeps out, or free from any appearance of artificiality.

Obtain an ounce of mercolized wax from your druggist and try it. Apply nightly like cold cream for a week or two, washing it off mornings. There's nothing quite so good for an over-tanned or freckled face—adv.

The Fleisher Yarns in Diamond Wound Balls You Will Find the Put-up of the Fleisher Yarns the Most Economical Way to Buy Yarns

NOTICE

The price of Yarns is advancing but we shall continue to sell them at the OLD PRICE for some time to come.

You are saved the tedious work of hand balling, you are sure that the yarn will reach your needles with all its original softness and elasticity, you avoid the loss of good yarn by snarls and tangles.

The balls contain more yarn than the skein, each weigh full ounce or two ounces. A ball will therefore work farther and there will be fewer knots in your garment.

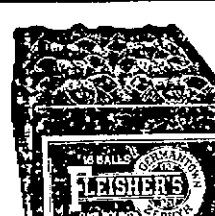

As the ball draws from the center you may place it in your bag and use it without further handling. By buying Fleisher yarn in full weight balls, ready for use, you will save time and yarn and secure more beautiful and satisfactory garments.

der his supervision and their output was so well managed that their export trade grew to large proportions and at the present time their trademarks are copyrighted in 32 foreign countries. This remarkable growth was due almost wholly to Mr. Cumnock's constructive genius and foresight.

Few men have risen more rapidly in their chosen vocation than did Mr. Cumnock. He was one of a family of successful manufacturers and one of five sons who attained great prominence. His entire mill life was passed in Lowell and so industrially it is spent that it may well rest as a pattern.

Alexander G. Cumnock was born in Glasgow, Scotland, September 21, 1834. When at the age of four years his family moved to Joustons, 30 miles from Glasgow, where his father, Robert L. Cumnock, engaged in manufacturing. Eight years later, his father decided to give up his business and seek a fortune as a farmer in America. Accordingly, in 1843, with his wife and two children, he came to this country and, after a brief stay in Lowell, settled on a farm in Mason, N. H., where he reared a family of 11 children.

Mr. Cumnock came to Lowell at the age of 12 years and entered the Edison grammar school. He took lessons in draughting for several winters and for two winters studied bookkeeping and general business methods at McCoy's commercial college. He took additional commercial studies in Boston.

After leaving school he entered the Hamilton mills and was employed in the spinning room. In 1854, when 20 years of age, he was appointed third hand in the spinning room of the Boot corporation. Three years later he became second hand, and at the age of 25 years he was offered a position of overseer in a spinning room at the Ancokeas mills, Manchester, N. H. To prevent his acceptance of this offer, Linus Child, then agent of the Boot, promoted him to the position of overseer of the spinning room there. After six years he was raised to the office of superintendent, and the year following was chosen agent of the Quinebaug Mfg. Co. of Danielsonville, Conn. After holding this position for two years, upon the resignation of William A. Burke in 1868, he was chosen as agent of the Boot mills, at that time one of the most extensive manufacturing corporations in New England. He held that position for 30 years and developed the plant until its output was trebled in quantity.

In 1898, Mr. Cumnock resigned as agent of the Boot and assumed the office of treasurer of the Appleton company, and as its virtual head conducted its business on lines that brought uniform success. Just prior to his work with the Appleton company, Mr. Cumnock conceived the idea of a school of textile studies and the Lowell Textile school, which opened in 1897, was the splendid culmination of his plans. As one of its founders and for many years a trustee, the school owes much of its success to his unflinching interest and wise counsel.

In a large degree, however, his life was triangular, inasmuch as his interest centered in three points—his home, his business and his church. For years his devotion and philanthropy meant much to the old Kirk Street church, where he was senior deacon. The recent merger, which united the Kirk Street and Unit churches received his hearty approval, and he held the same high position in the new society as he enjoyed when Kirk Street stood alone.

He was president of the Mechanics Savings bank, director of the Lowell Gas Light company and of the Stony Brook railroad and president of the People's club. He sought public office only once, when in 1872 he was elected to the Lowell board of aldermen and served as its president and chairman of the committee on water works during that year. In 1895, he was appointed a member of the Lowell finance commission.

He is survived by his wife, Frances F. Cumnock; five children, Eva F. Cumnock of this city, Mrs. John Wood Blodgett of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Victor L. and Arthur J. Cumnock and Mrs. Norman E. Ditman of New York city, also three grandchildren and one great grandchild.

News of the Churches

Rev. Thomas F. Markham, D.D., who has recently returned from Rome where he studied at the American college, celebrated his first solemn high mass in this country at St. Peter's church yesterday morning before a large congregation which included members of his family and a large number of friends.

Large numbers of the faithful received communion at the early masses in the various churches yesterday. The usual summer schedule was carried out in each of the parishes.

St. Patrick's
Rev. Francis L. Keenan celebrated the late mass at St. Patrick's church yesterday and also made the announcements. There were many communicants at the early masses.

Immaculate Conception
Rev. Albert McDermott, O.M.I., of Buffalo, N. Y., celebrated the 11 o'clock mass at the Immaculate Conception church yesterday. Members of the Junior branch of the Children of Mary and the Third Order of St. Francis received communion at the 8 o'clock mass. Rev. Denis A. Sullivan, O.M.I., was the celebrant and Rev. J. B. McCarthy, O.M.I., assisted in giving communion.

St. Peter's
The 11 o'clock mass at St. Peter's church yesterday was a solemn high mass and the celebrant and deacon were priests who were born and educated in the parish. Rev. Thomas F. Markham, D.D., who recently returned from Rome after studying in the American college and being ordained there, celebrated his first solemn high mass in this country. He was assisted by Rev. Thomas P. Frawley, a boyhood chum, also a native of St. Peter's, as deacon, and Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan as sub-deacon. Rev. Fr. Frawley is at present stationed in Dorchester while Rev. Dr. Markham has not yet been assigned. The relatives of both young priests occupied reserved pews and the rest of the church was filled with friends. The altar was beautifully decorated with flowers in honor of the occasion. Rev. Daniel J. Keleher Ph.D., pastor of St. Peter's, congratulated the young priests on their entrance upon their holy labors and also felicitated the relatives of both of them. He said that St. Peter's parish had given a goodly share of her young men to the priesthood and expressed the hope that both Rev. Dr. Markham and Rev. Fr. Frawley would have many years of health in which to serve the church. The occasion was a doubly happy one, he said, because it also marked the 10th anniversary of his assumption to the pastorate of St. Peter's.

St. Michael's
Rev. James F. Lynch celebrated the 11 o'clock mass at St. Michael's church yesterday and also made the announcements. Large numbers of the faithful received communion at the early masses.

Sacred Heart
Members of the Holy Angels' sodality received communion at the 8:30 o'clock mass at the Sacred Heart church yesterday. Rev. T. Franklin Wood, O.M.I., was the celebrant. Rev. Dennis Finnegan, O.M.I., celebrated the 11 o'clock mass and Rev. John Maher, O.M.I., preached.

St. Columba's
Rev. Paul Waldron, a missionary who has been extended service in the east, spoke at 11 o'clock mass at St. Columba's church yesterday on his experiences. He is soon to leave for China where he will continue his work. The late mass was celebrated by Rev. Francis McNeil.

St. Margaret's
Rev. Charles J. Galligan, the pastor, celebrated the 7:30 o'clock mass at St. Margaret's church yesterday and the boys of the parish received communion in a body. Rev. Stephen Murray celebrated the late mass.

Calvary Baptist
Rev. Stacy Warburton of Y.M.C.A. headquarters, Camp Mills, L. I., preached at both services at the Calvary Baptist church yesterday. Rev. Mr. Warburton spent several months overseas and gave a thrilling and vivid recital of the deeds and experiences of Uncle Sam's boys "over there."

Fifth Street Baptist
"The Word of God" was the subject discussed at the Fifth Street Baptist church yesterday morning. Rev. Chas. L. Fowler was the preacher.

First Baptist
Rev. Norris L. Tibbets took for his sermon topic at the First Baptist church yesterday morning: "The Menace of Indifference." In the evening he spoke on the theme, "The Help of the Hills."

Christian Science
The regular services were held at the Christian Science churches of the city yesterday and the subject under discussion was "Soul."

Elliot Union Congregational
Rev. George M. Ward, D.D., preached at the morning service at the First Congregational church yesterday and took as his topic: "Doubt." Albert Edmund Brown was the soloist.

First Congregational
"The Limited and the Limitless in Every Life" was the subject discussed at the morning service at the First Congregational church yesterday. Rev. Clarence A. Vincent was the speaker.

Pawtucket Congregational
Rev. F. L. Piper of Boston preached at the morning service at the Pawtucket Congregational church yesterday, and spoke on the subject, "The Holy Spirit."

Highland Congregational
"Modern Christianity" was the subject discussed at the Highland Congregational church yesterday morning. Rev. A. J. Marsh of Jamaica Plain was the preacher.

Jewish Synagogues
The usual services were held at the Jewish Synagogues on Saturday.

Highland M. E.
"The Pursuit of True Riches" was the subject discussed yesterday morning at the Highland M. E. church by Rev. Francis W. Brett of Springfield. In the evening he spoke on "The Making of a Prophet."

St. Paul's M. E.
Rev. Walter Healy of Lynn was the preacher at St. Paul's M. E. church yesterday morning. His subject was "Then and Now."

First Primitive Methodist
"The Greater Dividends" was the subject discussed yesterday morning at the First Primitive Methodist church. Rev. N. W. Matthews was the preacher.

First Presbyterian
Rev. Joseph E. Kennedy took for his sermon topic at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning: "Tree and Chaff."

DARING HOLDUP NETS ROBBERS BUT 50 CENTS

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—A daring holdup in Postoffice square early yesterday morning, ended in a wild automobile chase through the streets and alleys of the West End before the alleged robbers were arrested.

About 2:30, Newton McCree of 43 Catawka street, was sitting in his taxi in the square when an automobile stopped a short distance away. Three men leaped out of this machine, leveled revolvers at him and demanded his money. He handed them 50 cents after which they jumped into their machine and drove toward Haymarket square.

McCree followed in his car. At Haymarket square he picked up Patrolmen Moylan and Anderson of the Hanover street station, and continued the pursuit. Finally they trailed the offenders' machine to the Garden Street garage, where the patrolmen, with drawn revolvers, arrested three men.

The men gave their names as Thomas H. Conroy, 30, of 48 Spring street; James J. Mulhearn, 35, of 1 North Grove street, and Arthur Negro, 33, of 15 Revere street.

Usually McCree carries large sums of money with him and it is believed that these men knew of it.

PARIS, Saturday, Aug. 18. (By the Associated Press.)—Before leaving for Italy Saturday night, Gen. John J. Pershing, commander-in-chief of the American armies in France told correspondents that he expected to sail for America about September 1. Gen. Pershing said he would recommend that a monument be placed at Romagne, where occurred the bitterest fighting encountered by the American armies in Meuse-Argonne battle.

CHIEF WELCH IDENTIFIES ALLEGED AUTO THIEVES IN BOSTON

The two alleged auto bandits arrested in Quincy last week, Joseph LaFarge and John Mahoney, were identified Saturday by Supt. Welch in the Charles street jail, Boston, as the pair responsible for the theft of Dr. John

H. Donovan's automobile, which was stolen from John street three weeks ago and afterwards recovered in Lawrence. A local young man has been held for the theft of the machine, and it is understood that when his case is called in police court this week the charge will be dismissed.

Plans will be considered for a city-wide drive to enroll all of the city's ex-service men in the organization, and applications for the testimonials issued by Massachusetts will be available at the meeting. Several other important matters will also come up for consideration.

LETTER TO ARCHDUKE IS CALLED FORGERY

BUDAPEST, Saturday, Aug. 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Archduke Joseph, the head of the Hungarian state, denied today that he had received a letter from Emperor Charles, as charged in despatches from Budapest to Berlin newspapers. The letter, it is alleged, ordered the archduke to take over the power in Hungary and thanked him for his service to the Hapsburg dynasty.

The letter, as published in Berlin, if the king has been banished.

according to those familiar with Hapsburg court documents, bears the stamp of forgery.

It was pointed out today on behalf of Archduke Joseph, that the archduke could not exercise the powers of a sovereign, but could act only as regent for the interests of the former emperor and his eldest son. According to the law of succession in Austria-Hungary, it is said, no archduke can ascend the throne while a male descendant of a king is alive or even

RUMANS' CASE GROWS SERIOUS

Peace Conference Asked to
Act on Their Seizure of
Authority in Hungary

Taking Food Bought With
Hungarian Money is Called
Too High Handed

BUDAPEST, Thursday, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Brigadier-General Heary Bandholtz, American member of the allied mission here, is urging his colleagues to ask the peace conference to act quickly in regard to the presence of Rumanians in Hungary. His action was taken in view of reports coming in from all sides that the Rumanians continue to requisition food supplies.

Captain Thomas C. Gregory, chief allied food administrator in central Europe, takes a strong position regarding food and will permit none to enter Hungary as long as the Rumanians continue their seizures. This food was purchased by him with Hungarian money which he secured in Vienna when the Communist regime collapsed.

Herbert Hoover, chairman of the allied relief organization, who is now in Warsaw, has been asked to exert pressure on the peace conference for immediate action. Rumanian military authorities have asked that the American delegates to Vienna be run through the central exchange under control of the Rumanians. This request has been refused. Constantine Diamandy, the Rumanian high commissioner here, stated today that he would attempt to remove the censorship from the allied press, but complained that he did not have control of the military authorities.

Peace Council Concerned
The Hungarian situation will be discussed by the supreme council of the peace conference at its meeting today in Paris.

Frank Polk, the head of the American delegation, who visited the battlefields of France, over Saturday and Sunday, with A. J. Balfour, the British foreign minister, and Signor Tilton, the Italian foreign minister, returned to Paris this morning.

Arab King Disappointed
Prince Faisal, son of Hussein Ben Ali, king of the Hedjaz, will embark at Beirut today to come to Paris and resume his place at the head of the Arab delegation. The prince is dissatisfied with the settlement of Syrian and Persian questions, according to the French press.

The aspirations of France in Syria are being discussed by French newspapers in connection with the Anglo-Persian agreement which is the chief subject of discussion in peace conference.

ence circles. Generally, the agreement is looked upon as providing for a British protectorate in Persia.

Until the Persian treaty is ratified, delegates to the peace conference think it is improbable that it will come formally before the conference, although it is of first importance in the question of the dismemberment of Turkey. The situation regarding Turkey apparently is deadlocked until the United States decides whether it will accept a mandate for Armenia or elsewhere. Several French newspapers in discussing the departure of Prince Faisal for Paris, declare that France cannot deal with "British agents" but must press her claims to Syria before all the allies.

MANY ACCIDENTS OVER THE WEEK-END

David Copley, aged 5 years, son of John Copley of 3 Rundlett street, fell while playing with chums yesterday and received a fracture of the elbow. He was removed to St. John's hospital.

Alice Paquette, aged 3 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Paquette of 1033 Lawrence street, fell from a second-story window at her home Saturday evening and received bruises about the right hip. She was treated at St. John's hospital.

Struck By Auto
Gilmore O'Day of 63 Church street, a chauffeur, received multiple contusions on the back yesterday morning when he was struck by an automobile. He received treatment at St. John's hospital.

Compound Fracture of Leg
Martha Youkheere, aged 5 years and residing in Billerica Centre, was struck by an automobile Saturday afternoon and received a compound fracture of the right leg. She was taken to St. John's hospital. The automobile that figured in the accident is owned and was being operated by Walter Morse of 50 Grand street, Medford.

Boy Injured By Auto
John Rawlynovitz, aged 6 years and residing at 12 Bay State court, was struck by an automobile operated by Charles McLaughlin Saturday evening and received a laceration of the scalp. He was treated at St. John's hospital.

Recovers from Poisoning
Andrew Thompson, aged 62 years and residing at 20 R street, was taken to St. John's hospital Saturday afternoon, suffering from poisoning. He was soon revived, however, and was later able to return to his home.

Seriously Injured

When his automobile turned turtle near the bridge at North Billerica Saturday afternoon Peter Filipowzy, a resident of the village, received a compound fracture of the skull and he is now in a very serious condition at St. John's hospital.

GLARING HEADLIGHTS

Man Fined $25 for Failing to
Dim Lights and $10 for
Ignoring Order to Stop

The campaign against violators of the glaring headlight law, recently inaugurated by Supt. Welch of the Lowell police, bore fruit in police court today when Francis J. Cinq Mars of Ayer was fined $25 for failing to have the lights on his automobile properly dimmed, and $10 additional for failing to stop when signalled by Patrolman J. Clark. He appealed, and was held in $200 bail, which was furnished.

According to the story of Patrolmen Clark and Fanning, who arrested Cinq Mars in the down town section the evening of August 10, the latter was driving a jitney through Middlesex street, toward the city, and his headlights were much more glaring than the law allows. Patrolman Clark signalled him to stop, but he failed to do so, and after commandeering a passing auto the two officers arrested him a few moments later on Church st.

Cinq Mars said that he hadn't been sure Patrolman Clark wanted him to hold up, and that he had been coming back to Middlesex street to talk things over when apprehended. In regard to the glaring headlights, he said that he didn't need any dimmers on the machine as his batteries were so weak that they only threw a moderate light in front of the car.

Asked as to whether he had secured a license to transport passengers through the city he said that his car was not a jitney, but a "hackney carriage," and therefore, he needed no license.

In this connection Supt. Walsh said that violators of the glaring headlight law will be dealt with as severely as is possible in future. Out-of-town motorists who come through the city without dimmers on their cars will be told to talk things over with their chief of police when they get back home, he said.

Charged with the unlawful sale of whiskey Felix Pourier pleaded not guilty and his case was continued one week.

Eight men, who admitted they had been punishing various and sundry bottles of "Jaakey" on the South common last evening, provided the next number on the police court menu. Six of the men had their cases placed on file, while the other two, who gave their names as Frank McCluskey and Thomas Ellis, were assessed $10 each. Patrolman Rutter made the arrests.

FISK RED-TOP TIRES

A New Tire

It is oversize, has an extra ply of fabric and an extra heavy tread. Its big size and its red top with light side-walls distinguish it from every other tire made.

Each month since this tire was put on the market it has been necessary to add to equipment in order to meet the demand.

Its popularity has been instantaneous and permanent and will continue to grow because it has features that no other make of tire is duplicating.

FREE SHANTUNG OR WAR WILL BREAK OUT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—It was the unanimous opinion of American experts on far eastern affairs at Versailles, that was must result from the peace treaty provision giving Japan control in the Chinese province of Shantung, the senate foreign relations committee was told today by Thomas F. Millard, an American writer who was attached to the Chinese peace delegation.

The committee called Millard, a writer on far eastern politics, to question him regarding features of the treaty provision giving Japan control in the Chinese province of Shantung.

The proposal to strike this provision from the treaty by amendment gives promise of developing one of the most bitter fights of the entire treaty controversy. Later in the week, other witnesses are to appear before the committee in its consideration of the question.

Concluding a detailed story of the Shantung negotiations, which he said came directly from delegates to the conference, Mr. Millard said:

"In my opinion, if the maplet had set out deliberately to put China in an embarrassing position, the outcome could not have been more unfortunate. China has lot out entirely on her Shantung claim. By reason of advice given her by the United States, she did not raise at all other questions in question him regarding features of the treaty provision giving Japan sign the treaty under those circumstances she is completely isolated.

"When Prof. E. T. Williams, for years head of the state department division of Far Eastern affairs, heard of the Shantung agreement, he said 'This statement to the same effect.'

means war,' and every American expert there felt the same way. I have heard, but do not know whether it is true, that General Bliss' letter to the president on the subject contained a statement to the same effect."

Protest to U. S. Senate Alleges
Peace Treaty Allows Britain
to Keep Nation in Bondage

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—In a brief filed today with the foreign relations committee of the senate, Joseph W. Folk, formerly governor of Missouri, charges that England, under the guise of a protectorate over Egypt, practically has seized that country as a British possession, that "in an annex to the peace treaty the status of Egypt would be made an internal question and beyond the jurisdiction of the council of the League of Nations, which council the Egyptians desire to pass upon the status of Egypt."

The document sets forth that the original occupation of Egypt by British troops, beginning in 1882, was claimed by the British government to be merely temporary for the purposes of suppressing rebels and collecting debts due Europeans. The British government, says Mr. Folk, "pledged Egypt and the world that this occupation would be only temporary."

After giving a resume of the political history of modern Egypt and the alleged wrongs done to that country to enforce British rule in the last several decades, the brief recites the story of "the killing of 600 and the wounding of 1000 Egyptian natives last April in the streets of their cities while holding demonstrations for freedom under the self-determination clauses of the peace treaty."

Folk Fought Egypt

Mr. Folk, who was formerly solicitor for the state department, and who now represents the commission which was named by the legislative assembly of Egypt, a majority of which were elected by the people, he says, calls attention to the fact that Egyptian troops, numbering 1,000,000, "fought on the side of the allies to make, as they believed, the world safe for democracy and for the right of national self-determination for all peoples."

Egypt before the war, he says, was independent for all practical purposes though under the nominal sovereignty of Turkey and subject to annual tribute to Turkey. On December 18, 1914, it is stated Great Britain removed the ruler of Egypt and appointed Prince Hussein as sultan, ostensibly as a war measure and assumed by the Egyptians to be such.

British Intermeddled

"When the time came for making peace," he observes, "the Egyptian people naturally concluded that since, under the League of Nations they would be preserved from external aggression, the protectorate of Great Britain would be removed. But they were doomed to disappointment."

The Egyptian legislative assembly's commission, on the way to Paris to present that country's claims, it is charged, was intended by order of the British government upon reaching Malta, released upon the recommendation of General Allenby, it is said, it reached Paris "only to find, with amazement, that a recognition of the British protectorate over Egypt had been written into the treaty."

In conclusion the brief states: "The condemnation of Egypt without a hearing before an international tribunal, if one is established, would mean the continued subjection of Egypt to British bondage and continued mowing down by British machine guns of these liberty-seeking people, who fought with America to make the world safe from military autocracy."

SHOE STRIKE CONTINUES

Reports at Big Meeting of Strikers State Few Reports
at Plants Opened Today

One of the largest meetings of members of the Allied Shoe Workers union held since the shoe workers' strike has been in force in this city, took place this morning in the quarters of the organization in Middle street, and this despite the fact that two of the concerns affected by the strike opened their plants for business this morning.

The meeting was presided over by Business Agent George Racine, who complimented the strikers for their firm stand and urged his listeners to stick together until the fight has been won. "The fact that the manufacturers, after having their plants closed for three weeks, attempted to open up this morning, is a sure sign that they are weakening," he said, "and if you stick together and keep away from the plants, you will surely win what you are fighting for, better conditions, higher wages and shorter hours, for recognition of the union and collective bargaining in a shop means a great improvement for both employers and employees. We are not out to trim the manufacturers, for our aim is to bring about harmony in the different shoe plants of the city and that will mean more co-operation on the part of the help and a better grade of work."

Mr. Racine stated that the John Pilling company opened its doors for business this morning, and that according to the report of the picketers who were in the vicinity of the plant, only seven employees besides the foremen reported for work. He also stated that the number of employees who went to work at the plant of the Foster Shoe company was very small, as was that at the T. H. Spaulding company. He said that it may take 24 hours and perhaps three weeks to win the strike, but if the strikers stick together they are sure to win out. He urged those who cannot afford to be idle to find work elsewhere, and the executive board of the union was willing and ready to do its utmost in securing work for the worthy ones.

At the close of the meeting, Mr. Racine stated that a few representatives of the union will go to East Cambridge tomorrow morning, to appear in court as respondents in injunction proceedings instituted by the Federal Shoe company. He also stated that the regular meeting of the union this week, will be held Thursday night instead of Friday night.

SELLING MOTOR TRUCKS

One-third of the population of the United States lives on farms. Next to the gasoline tractor, no invention of recent years has helped the farmer like the commercial motor truck. It is safe to say every farmer who can afford it buys one. It is not perhaps too much to say that many farmers buy trucks or tractors just as soon as they can make an initial payment and arrange for paying the installments.

The Sun reaches many farmers in the vicinity of Lowell. For this reason it ought to make an almost ideal medium for firms selling all kinds of medium priced auto trucks to reach this class of buyers. Obviously every ad of a motor truck for farmers ought to have a picture used and the advertiser can go into the technical part of the proposition a little more thoroughly than is customary with the city reader for the reason that the farmer takes to the subject of mechanics with aptitude. This appeal to the farmer is one that ought not to be neglected by any of the numerous firms in Lowell making a specialty of motor trucks. And to place yourself so as to capitalize the possibilities of this proposition to the full, all kinds of motor trucks should be advertised in

THE CITY'S "LURE"

How much longer are we going to let ourselves be lured by the city? The reason for this question and why it is considered timely is because the average man is up against this proposition. If he has steady work and continued good health and his family enjoys good health, he may just about beat the barrier to the extent of paying his bills and being considered a citizen in good standing.

But is there any better condition in prospect for him than this? Based on experience and observation of conditions obtaining now, for the past two years and with the future giving no promise that conditions will be very much better, we should say his prospect cannot improve under existing conditions. Suppose the average father wants to buy a home for his family. If he is a poor man his only possible chance is to save up $300 at least, and invite the co-operative bank to help him. The co-operative bank will do business with a man who has $300 and wants to buy a modest priced home. Yet, with the cost of living as it is now, how can the wage earner save up an initial payment of $300? Suppose he saved $300 and he or his family was attacked by sickness, away would go the home buying fund.

years its leading benefactor, always seeking to make it what it is today, the foremost school of its kind in the world.

There were times when Mr. Cummoek was severely criticized and even disliked by a large proportion of his employees, but this was chiefly due to a misunderstanding of the difficulties with which he had to contend in meeting the business depressions and the fluctuations in the price of cotton mill products. They expected him to do the impossible, but he always tried to do the best he could for the operatives of his mills.

Not alone in the textile industry was Mr. Cummoek deeply interested, but in every movement for the benefit of the city and its people. He was a generous contributor to every worthy charity and every movement for securing better government for Lowell.

Mr. Cummoek and Mr. Southworth, the latter of the Massachusetts mills, were two of the most accomplished mill men in the United States. The factories over which they respectively presided may well stand as monuments to their pre-eminence as leaders in the textile industry.

"PRINCE CHARMING"

Oh yes, it is fine to live in the city. It is fine to live in close association with neighbors you do not know and who do not care to know you. It is fine to live in the city where you can go places—if you have the carfare and the price of admission. City life is certainly a great life—if you have a windshield. It lures you all right. Many people believe it. Many people do not have self reliance enough to become their own boss and depend on their own ability to meet the demands of a personal payroll. All through New England, Massachusetts perhaps more than the states in northern New England, there is a continued and steady abandonment of rural life, and a steady flocking to the city. Again, so much of the food we eat has to be hauled a long way at the highest freight charges the country has ever known, that it is no wonder city folk pay high for succumbing to the lure, yet farming was never so profitable as at present.

All of us have been reading about the visit to Canada of Great Britain's future king, the Prince of Wales. We believe no royal visitor could have had a better reception than has been given to the young man who, in the privacy of his royal family, is called "Davy." Newfoundland, and New Brunswick now call him the "Prince Charming."

He happens to belong to a family whose members used to be the hereditary rulers of Great Britain and the dominions overseas. His father is at the present time, king of England but he rules neither England nor the dominions overseas. That important function is capably performed by the party in power in England in just such part as it can get backing from its followers in the house of lords and the house of commons.

We Americans believe Prince Charming will find himself in a congenial atmosphere in Canada, eastern, western and middle Canada. All this respect and honor paid him is because he is the representative of an ancient institution. But with it, he may absorb Canadian democracy and self reliance and enterprise. If he inquired he might be courteously but bluntly told that Canada does not do things the way they are done in England but that final results justify her in continuing to be self reliant. We believe also, that one of the best things "Wales" could gain during his three months' long holiday in the Dominion would be to learn the Canadian point of view, for it is the point of view of a rising nation and a great people.

MR. CUMMOCK'S DEATH

The passing of Alexander G. Cummoek, for over fifty years prominently identified with the industrial life of our city, is a distinct loss to the community. As a mill man conducting a great cotton factory, he was one of the foremost manufacturers in the country. Having grown up in the business and applied his keen intellect and sound judgment to every phase of cotton manufacturing, he naturally won the highest success. He was not a college graduate, nor a graduate of any textile school, for there were no such schools in his youth, but in the practical work of the cotton factory, he became not only a master but a director, an organizer of great ability and finally the presiding genius of one of the greatest textile factories in the country. He was one of the founders of the Lowell Textile school and for many years its leading benefactor, always seeking to make it what it is today, the foremost school of its kind in the world.

There were times when Mr. Cummoek was severely criticized and even disliked by a large proportion of his employees, but this was chiefly due to a misunderstanding of the difficulties with which he had to contend in meeting the business depressions and the fluctuations in the price of cotton mill products. They expected him to do the impossible, but he always tried to do the best he could for the operatives of his mills.

Not alone in the textile industry was Mr. Cummoek deeply interested, but in every movement for the benefit of the city and its people. He was a generous contributor to every worthy charity and every movement for securing better government for Lowell.

EXPORTS AND THE H. C. L.

We have previously intimated in this paper that the enormous food exports from the United States undoubtedly had a considerable effect upon this country's present high cost of living problem.

It is not strange to learn that this phase of the question is receiving a great deal of attention from our government at the present time. One afternoon last week a conference on this subject was held between President Wilson, Secretary Lansing and different government officials, with information on the subject.

We are sending overseas, not the normal supply of foodstuffs—normal in respect to the amount that would generally be sent in the times prior to the war—but we are sending a quantity far in excess of the amount. It is called to attention that the department of commerce says but little of the goods shipped away are actually paid for now and this fact is largely responsible for the prevailing high prices. There is no doubt that an embargo on foreign exports if put into effect at this time would make the price of food immediately tumble, but unfortunately the United States is not in a position where it can put on such an embargo. This country must continue to send a large amount of supplies to foreign countries but doing this, it should be willing to accept foreign goods in return. The international scale of commerce must balance as nearly as possible.

It seems that London is destined not to have to remain in its present unprotected condition due to the keys to it being missing, for a very much longer time. The keys of the city were hospitably presented to Gen. Pershing when he recently visited the city. It is the custom, on the part of such visitors, to return the keys at the conclusion of their visit but when Gen. Pershing was ready to depart London, lo, the keys that locked up the town of nights, were missing. It was an unhappy, sad matter. But they have been recovered at Camp Devens, in the bed roll of an army officer. It is not yet positively known if his souvenir mania got the better of his judgment but if it did, we think his judgment is a frail thing.

Let us not fall into the mistake of believing Russia is a wholly bankrupt nation. It is said she now has on hand no less a quantity than 57,600,000 pounds of wool and it is valuable enough and badly needed by us over here so that we wish the soviets would quit sovieting and allow some of the wool to be exported. It would be paid for in money of more value than soviet print-it-every-hour script.

Probably the slickest "re-write job" accomplished in this hemisphere for quite some time may be said to have been accomplished by Provost Marshal Crowder, just returned from a four months' trip to Cuba. He is said to have practically re-written the Cuban election laws. Why don't the republicans try to enlist him to re-write the League of Nations? Perhaps he does not want to run for president.

Let us congratulate the little town of Newbury, down near Newburyport. Her tax rate this year is to be $10 on a thousand, same rate as last year. It is believed she establishes a place of fame for herself in regard to tax rates, among Massachusetts towns and cities. Seems as if the cost of government in Newbury must have some bearing on the H. C. L.

These gas masks that are to be sold as surplus stock by the war department, are advertised to be sold at $5 each. They are also said to be a fine article to have on hand when peeling onions. Most of the Lowell housewives will not feel financially able to pay $5 for an onion protector. They will be thankful if they can get the onions.

The good humored English are saying that "America intruded into the war," but even as it is said, they lose no time in remarking that she, with all she represented and the material assistance she could give, was in every way a welcome intruder.

Mexico evidently always tries to go the world one better, no matter how big a story is told and when she claims the cost of living in her republic has increased 213 per cent since the war started, we are disposed to extend her the palm.

If the Ford jury possessed sense of humor it almost seems as if they would have assessed the Chicago paper a "jitney" as damages to be paid, instead of six cents.

Gov. Bartlett has invited the Prince of Wales to visit New Hampshire if he can. It has beautiful scenery and fine hospitality. We think Wales will come if he can.

If you are cute at figures can you obtain anything from this, having an important bearing on the Massachusetts trolley problem? This state has 5000 street cars and 186,000 automobiles. Has this fact something to do with the Bay State's loss of revenue?

Before taking your train home from Boston get The Sun at either newsstand in the North station.

SEEN AND HEARD

Lots of people look thoughtful—then let it go at that.

Somewhere we read that money isn't everything, but that it makes good as a substitute. Right!

We agree thoroughly with the statement that a man who gets into the habit of never making mistakes is entirely too perfect for this world.

What She Wanted

Mrs. Newrich (in store)—I want a piece of music for my little girl who is learning to play the piano.

Clerk—Yes, madam; here is "Twilight," for 25 cents. How would that suit?

Mrs. Newrich—O, she's farther advanced than that. Why, last week she played a piece that cost 50 cents. Haven't you got something for about a dollar?—San Francisco Chronicle.

Followed Foreman's Advice

In the early days printers in most newspaper offices supplied the headlines for the items they put in type. Henry Cary tells a story of a man in a Milwaukee composing room who had a paragraph he did not understand.

He went over to the foreman and showed him the item.

"How'd I head this?" he asked.

"O," said the foreman, "head it appropriately. Don't bother me with such questions."

So the next morning the item appeared in the paper headed: Appropriately!—Saturday Evening Post.

A Light Comedian

Two washerwomen were one day telling of the progress made by their various lads in their chosen work.

"Tell me, Mrs. Casey," asked Mrs. Clancy, "what's your son John doing now?"

"John's on the stage—he's a light comedian," answered Mrs. Casey.

"To don't tell me!" exclaimed Mrs. Clancy. "An' would ye mind tellin' me what a 'light comedian' is?"

"Well," explained Mrs. Casey, "in me son's case it's this: He plays a silent part behind a black curtain with his mouth to a hole, and in front is a candle, and when Alkali Al shoots at the candle, John blows it out!"—Saturday Journal.

Something For His Spare Time

A colonel wanted a man-servant, so he inserted an advertisement in the local weekly. One of the applicants who answered was an Irishman.

"What I want," explained the colonel, "is a useful man—one who can cook, drive a motor, look after a pair of horses, clean boots and windows, feed poultry, milk the cow, and do a little painting and paperhanging."

"Excuse me, sir," said Murphy, "but what kind of soil have ye here?"

"Soft!" snapped the colonel. "What's that got to do with it?"

"Well, I thought if it was clay I might make bricks in me spare time!"—Everybody's Magazine.

VI.—To His Physician (Copyright 1919 N.E.A.)

Dear Doctor: am feeling better. But pained to get your recent letter. Informing me the consultation Decreed against your operation.

Old friend, you know I love you dearly and sympathize with you sincerely. I know you must be disappointed. To have your fondest plans unfulfilled by inexperienced conductors. Who thus prevent me from my tutors. These lesser joys of narrow vision. Who interfere with your decision.

Truly, these mal-practitioners grieve me!

Nul on my own account, believe me. For I am quite without ambition. I know you must be disappointed. To have your fondest plans unfulfilled by inexperienced conductors. Who thus prevent me from my tutors. These lesser joys of narrow vision. Who interfere with your decision.

Well, well, let these vain fools content them!

I have a plan to circumvent them. Let us accept their crass decision. Not even hinting our derision. Then, when I'm well again, and we'll plan a little surgeon's party.

I'll offer for your vindication. My two-weeks' summer-time vacation. A newly vulcanized intestine. And if your conferees should venture again to cavil or to censure. Or if some sin and its resultant Should make them, for the nonce, exultant. Together we'll defy and thwart 'em And prove you right—at my post-mortem.

BANDIT RAISULI IS AMBUSHING AGAIN

PARIS, Sunday, Aug. 17.—Moroccan brigands under command of their leader Raisuli, are reported to have ambushed a Spanish force accompanying a food convoy between the towns of Sagueda and Bgala, killing 12 soldiers and wounding a number, four officers being among the casualties. The column, however, succeeded in escaping.

Raisuli is said to be organizing a vast entrenched camp between Tangier and Tetouan, near Fondack. Xatines report that an elaborate system of trenches and blockhouses has been constructed, all the works being modern in character.

1300 ARE DROPPED FROM VOTING LIST

The registrars of voters announce that 1300 names have been dropped from the local voting list year for various reasons, but it is expected that before the fall elections come along that at least 1000 of these will be reinstated. According to the figures of the registrars, wards 3 and 5 have shown the healthiest increase in the number of voters in the past year.

PARIS' PRETTIEST LEGS IN GOTHAM

With City Suffering From L Strike, Their Owner Finds Strong Limbs Have Call

Slim Chance for Her to Prove Her Claim With Show Shops Closed by Strike

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—There is a question whether tired little old New York, bewildered today by a complete tieup of her L system and most of her theaters being out of business because the actor gentlemen and the actress ladies were also on strike, could get up much enthusiasm over the arrival of a certain lady on the steamship France. It is claimed she has the prettiest legs in Paris and her name is Mlle. Bourgeois ditte Mistinguett. If the theatrical strike should be settled soon and some musical comedy theatre afford a chance, Mademoiselle says New York might have a chance to pay to see how perfect Paris legs are looking this season.

But New York with her millions compelled to reluctantly walk to work this morning from all sorts of distances, dismisses the thought of Miss Mistinguett's legs by thinking how tired her own legs will be by bedtime tonight. Those of a more humorous mind have some curiosity as to whether the enforced walking Mademoiselle Mistinguett may have to undergo, will have the effect of increasing the symmetry of decreasing the shapeliness of her legs. She says they are precious enough to her so that she had them insured for $100,000 before she braved the dangers of the Atlantic.

Besides this bid for fame in America, Mademoiselle evidently not yet having heard of the limb pulchritude visibly ascribed to the Marie Sennet bathing beauties—another feather Mademoiselle is disposed to hitch to her headgear, is that she claims she invented the Apache dance. Of course considerable responsibility must be hers if she thought up this particular gait. No one over here got fussed up over the Apache dance. Jacques Charles, a Paris musical comedy producer, was also a passenger on the ship and he was quickly certified to ships news reporters that Miss Mistinguett really is called the "girl with the prettiest legs in Paris." Nothing is said about her face, these same reporters told their city editors and then defensively said that she wished to advertise her legs exclusively, why should anything be said about her face?

of a military company in their barracks. Of the 300 state police in office in Cassel, 100 have elected to be transferred to the new organization and the remainder have been given places in the civil service.

The ultimate size of the new militarized police organization has not been announced. Americans studying the demobilization and reorganization of the German army say that the significance of militarizing police in Germany, is great.

American officers have records of an announcement that the Prussian state government, quite apart from the national government was to organize a "Schutzmannschaft" or state police force, throughout Prussia, which would be virtually military units in garbisons with full infantry equipment, but would be under control of the minister of the interior and used only for the repression of internal disorders. These troops, according to the plan, were to be quite apart and in excess of the army permitted Germany under the terms of the peace treaty.

A semi-official announcement, however, state that it is appreciated that these troops are not permitted under the terms of the peace treaty, but the hope is expressed that the allies will be "reasonable" and permit their organization. The Cassel incident, it is contended by American officers, occurring long after the treaty was signed but before the allied and inter-allied commission on military control of Germany and begun to function, show that the Prussian government is proceeding to organize a military force, trusting that the allies will not take any action against it.

ANOTHER GAUGED STEP INTO BIG LEAGUE

It looks like old times to see a Gangel in a Boston uniform. However, the Gangel in question is a recruit, and instead of being with the Boston Nationals, where that name will ever be a fond memory, he is with the Red Sox. The name recalls the baseball traditions of a generation since and forms a connecting link between the present and the game's historic past.

Gray haired fans who can still remember that dependable old Boston Brave veteran—Charley Gangel, for many years the leading backstop—for a while manager when the Waipalea street grounds were still in their prime, will have the pleasure almost any day now of seeing a son of the justly popular veteran step up to the bat in a pinch or to the outfield for the Red Sox at Fenway Park.

Old Charley is gone, and his deeds are profusely written on the National league record books. But young Babe Gangel, mightiest son of a family which has made a national name in baseball, is eager to continue the powerful tradition of his father's name in the records of the great national game.

Thirty years or more ago the fans of the Boston club were thrilled by an announcement that the Boston club had purchased from Detroit the services of the Big Boy—Dan Brouthers, Hardie Richardson, Charlie Bennett and Charley Gangel. All four were murderous hitters and stars in their respective positions. And Charley Gangel, in a Boston uniform, outlasted all the rest.

For years Charley's great work, behind the bat and his ability to hit so splendidly in the pinches were big factors in the success of the Boston club. Now Charley has "gone beyond," but a talented son remains to bring the name of Gangel into the limelight once more.

Young Forrest (Babe) Gangel came to the Red Sox as a first sacker, a position which his uncle, John Gangel, so ably filled for the New York Yankees and Cincinnati Reds not so awfully long ago. "Babe" is 18 years of age, 5 feet 11 inches in height, weighs 173 pounds. He is regarded as one of the finds of the season.

Last year he played for Quincy, and about 6 weeks ago word of his ability reached Jesse Burkett, manager of the Haverhill team of the New England league. An even better outfielder than First Base Jesse Burkett quickly realized that Babe Gangel was a natural hitter.

In the semi-professional ranks he has been nicknamed "Babe" after "Babe" Ruth, because he was able to hit them high and far away. Always a deadly left field hitter, Burkett at once made him change his style. In spite of this Gangel has a hitting act, a 3-4 clip when the New England league broke up. Burkett was preparing to place him with a club in the New England league, and the latter turned down an offer from a team in the International league. Two other brothers were wounded last year in the "bigger game" in France.

The Suits That We Are Selling for $37.50

Offer a particularly good chance for a man to save money.

Most of these are in quiet, sober patterns, dark silk mixtures, refined fancy silks and fine woolsens.

There is a generous collection—but hardly more than one suit of a size in each pattern—and the models are of the conservative character that never go out of style.

These suits sold for $45, $50 and $60—but as the lots became reduced we brought them all together—for one price.....$37.50

There is every indication that clothing will cost more next spring, than it is selling for today.

K. OF C. WINS LOOSELY PLAYED GAME

In a loosely played game where earned runs were more scarce than rain drops on a duck's back, the Knights of Columbus defeated the B. & M. car shop team at Spalding park Saturday afternoon by the score of 6 to 4. It was the first of a series of three games to help decide the ultimate resting place of the city amateur championship golfcon.

Devlin opposed Ducky Wheeler and the latter had his own poor start and almost continuous nervous defense for his downfall. The hits were even and the errors practically so, but the Knights took it upon themselves to err on the safe side in moments and got six of their 10 hits for five runs in the first four innings, thus building up a lead which Jim Reynolds' team could not match.

A member of the defeated team, however, was the shining light of the battle—Henry Sullivan, former Lowell N. E. league team catcher, who pastimed in center field for the car shop boys. He was at bat five times and cracked out as many hits. He singled in the first, third, fifth and ninth and pleasantly varied his program by dropping a double into left field in the seventh. Getting half of his club's hits and scoring two of its four runs comprised a very good afternoon's work. Ed. Cawley got three safe blows, two of them infield hits.

Jim O'Day opened the game with a smart hit to center and a bouncer that out a hit to Chouinard, but O'Day was cut down trying to make third. Haggerty was tossed out a moment later by White when he tried to steal. Murphy kept up the good work by shooting a single over second base and advanced when Schomborn muffed up Cawley's drive. Wheeler tried to catch Edward off first, but the latter dashed for second and beat McGowan's late throw. Murphy taking third, Walter Foye singled Murphy and Cawley over and went alone to second on the throw-in. Breen kicked Ray Foye's drive around the diamond, but recovered in time to catch Walter at the plate. Four hits, two runs and a working edge for Devlin.

Three more runs came over for the Knights in the fourth on two hits, a sacrifice, two errors and a base on balls. Devlin held the railroaders safe for four innings, but Sullivan's third hit with two gone and Wheeler on second in the fifth accounted for the first run scored against him.

The K. of C. got another in the seventh and in their half the car shop boys got a pair. McGowan and Wheeler fanned but Devlin stepped in and right field. Sully followed with a two-base blow down the right field line and when Sheehy fumbled Brown's roller and tossed the ball, it was over Foye's head at the plate, two runs came over.

Devlin was given a merry session in the ninth, but pulled out of it with only one run scored against him. Sullivan inserted his fifth hit with one down and traveled around to third on a wild pitch. Brown doubled for the run, but neither White nor Breen could drag him past second base.

Jack O'Day umpired a nice game and although partisan rooters kicked over a few of his decisions on strikes and strikes the howls were unwarranted. The score:

Newton, Aug. 18.—Unfavorable weather forecasts and soft turf in the courts made play in the challenge round of the International amateur tennis championship tournament at the Longwood Cricket club uncertain today. The Australian pair, Norman E. Brookes and Gerald P. Paus, who came through the preliminary rounds without losing a set last week, were scheduled to meet the present title holders, William T. Tilden and Vincent Richards of Yonkers, N. Y., on the Chestnut Hill courts late in the day.

Should the match be postponed and heavy rain fall tonight, it was believed that the round might have to go over until Wednesday, because of turf condition. The advance sale indicated that the international character of the match would bring out the largest gallery in the history of the club.

AMATEUR BASEBALL The Matthews went down to defeat before the Bunting by the score of 10 to 4. For six innings the game was a battle of pitchers between Whitaker and Campbell, but the Buntings cut loose here and heavy hitting clinched the game.

The Universal "Thirde" defeated the S.A.A.C. Saturday morning, 5 to 1. Ryan and Brennan each scored two runs and were stars of the game. The Universals want a game for next Saturday with some strong 11-year-old team.

The Bellvues easily defeated the Lowell Gas company team on the South common Saturday afternoon, by the score of 9 to 1.

Other Saturday games resulted as follows:
Boott mills 18, Shlesia mills 5.
Lawrence A.C. 3, U. S. Cartridge 4.
Fifty A.C. 2, West Hill 2.
Saginaw A.C. 5, Jolly Campers 3.

JOE LEONARD AFTER KILBANE'S CROWN

Joe Leonard, sensational featherweight is not on the trail of the world title's featherweight championship now held by Johnny Kilbane. Silvey Burns, Leonard's manager, announces that he knows of a club that will guarantee Kilbane $3500, if he will risk his title in a decision bout with Leonard. Not only this, but numerous other clubs have offered Kilbane as high as $1500 to meet Leonard in a no decision battle.

There is no questioning the fact that Leonard will some day get a chance to win the championship. Although only a few months over three years, he has held his own with some of the best in the game. Among them, Joe Lynch, Frankie Burns, Dick Londman, Jack Sharkey, Al Shubert, Eddie Moran of England, Joe Tippitz, Ralph Egan and Johnny Mahoney.

Leonard is an Italian-American born on New York's East Side. In action he resembles the late Terry McGovern and Mike Terry. He is a fighting bearcat. All Joe knows is a fight every second in the ring. It is Leonard's head and shoulders that has made him a big crowd attraction throughout the country.

The Call'em

When Babe Ruth tied Seybold's American League home run record he sagged for some time, for so long, in fact, that fans just about gave up hope that he would even approach "Buck" Freeman's world mark of 23. But the invigorating air of the middle west has put new blood into the Sox mauler and in the past three days he has clicked off homers three consecutive times, until his mark now stands at 16. Now, says Stalling, who will reach Freeman's record and, by chance, he cracks out just one more after that he will tower above the league head and shoulders—the greatest hitter of all time.

A LIKELY RECRUIT Gene Bailey, Portland outfielder, who has caught on with the Boston Country club today in the 36-hole medal play round for the 32 places in the match play division of the National Amateur Golf championship. Weather conditions were favorable.

Francis Oumet, who was ill with tonsillitis and a cold Saturday night and Sunday, rested well last night and left his hotel early today, prepared to start in the play. Charles (Chick) Evans, Jr., the champion, was at the course early.

SPORT VS. COMMERCIALISM

It is to be hoped that Nixy Coughlin will experience a change of heart before next Saturday and not force the visiting Pere Marquette baseball team to play on the South common diamond when it comes to Lowell next Saturday. That never again would be taken as a team out here to play as the size of the crowd did not warrant it. The attendance Saturday was in the neighborhood of 500, possibly a little less, but surely it numbered 450. At 25 cents a head at the main gate it represented about $125 and as there were at least 200 in the grandstand and probably a greater number, the total receipts were about $150, plus. We do not know what expenses were entailed, but they could not have been very large.

On Mr. Coughlin's own say-so, the usual receipts at the common in a hat collection average about $75. But the main question at issue to us seems to be, playing conditions. It is to be presumed that the Pere Marquette team is accustomed to playing on regulation diamonds and to forcing them to pastime on any such sand lot as the South common is heaping insult on injury. There will be a huge crowd at the common to see the game and ground rules will govern the entire game. Sport ceases to be worthy of the name when it is commercialized to the discomfort of spectators and spectators and when the Pere Marquette pitcher slings down into the pitching holes of the common and tries to stick the ball over a plate built of flapping newspaper and two handfuls of sand, several pertinent things are very likely to be said.

GETTING READY FOR STATE PRIMARIES

Employees of the public property department will begin next week to erect polling booths in anticipation of the state primaries on Sept. 23. Commissioner George E. Marchand says there will be no change of location. Residents of Centralville wanted the polling place in Lakeview avenue changed to the Greenhulme school, but this has been deemed inadvisable owing to the fact that many people living in Lakeview avenue have said that they will not walk to the Greenhulme school to vote. The commissioner will make an effort to have the booth better heated than it has been heretofore. The two booths which are at present being used at the municipa swimming pool off Varum avenue will not be taken down until all the others have been erected.

GEN. TINOCO BLAMES U. S. FOR BROTHER'S DEATH

KINGSTON, Jam., Saturday, Aug. 16. (By Associated Press)—Federico Tinoco, for the last 2½ years president of Costa Rica, in a statement to the correspondent on his arrival here today, said he believed the assassin of his brother, Jose Joaquin Tinoco, had come from Nicaragua and that the assassination had been planned in Nicaragua and Washington.

Gen. Tinoco said that he decided to leave Costa Rica on account of his health about a month ago. At that time, he said, perfect order was being maintained.

Gen. Tinoco had arranged for his brother to assume the reins of government during his absence, but Joaquin, having decided to accompany the general to Europe, resigned the vice-presidency last Saturday night. It was arranged that the brothers and their families should leave Costa Rica on Monday.

Last Sunday night, while his brother was on his way to an appointment with the minister of finance, Gen. Tinoco said, he was approached by an unidentified man who shot him in the back. Death was instantaneous. Gen. Tinoco said he believed the assassin was a paid bandit from Nicaragua.

Gen. Tinoco asserted that he had done everything to maintain friendly relations with foreign countries. He declared he was greatly disappointed over the attitude of the United States toward his government, which he considered unjustified.

Gen. Tinoco will leave Kingston on Wednesday for Europe, where he intends to remain for some time.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND

"The Shadows of Suspicion," the Screen Classics, Inc., production in which Harold Lockwood is featured, will be one of the big features at The Strand for the first three days of the week, starting with matinee today. In this presentation the star excels both as a comedian and actor of romantic roles. You will like him all the more after seeing him in this offering.

Then Earle Williams, the Vitaphone star, in his latest picture issue, "The Hornet's Nest," will be the other good thing on the bill. This offering has all the elements that go in the making of an acceptable film presentation. Ted Leary will be the week's soloist and the usual Pathe comedy and the latest Universal Weekly will be shown.

The money contest is moving along with added interest. The race is soon to go into the homestretch and from then on the battle for honors will surely be exciting. We are informed that some "dark horses" promise a surprise. Watch out. Save your coupons for your favorite. The Strand money to be given away free will be delivered here soon.

MEETING OF IRISH SOCIETIES

The United Irish societies of Lowell will hold a mass meeting in Associate hall next Sunday evening to protest against certain clauses in the draft of the League of Nations covenant, as a result of a decision reached at a meeting of the executive committee in Hibernian hall yesterday afternoon. Dr. Patrick J. Bagley presided. The meeting will be open to the general public and it is planned to have a list of excellent speakers.

Presented R. E. Murphy of Mohair Co. Overseers

The annual outing of the overseers of the Massachusetts Mohair Plush Co. took place at Bass Point, Nahant, on Saturday. The party motored to their rendezvous and later enjoying a dip repaired to the Relay house, where a private dining room had been reserved and enjoyed one of the famous chicken dinners served by that hostelry, with an accompaniment of vocal and instrumental music. When cigars had been lighted and after-dinner speeches were in order Supt. Aveyard, toastmaster of the occasion, called upon Mr. Randall Houlton, who, in a reminiscent mood, reviewed the pleasant reunions of the overseers of that company for the past 25 years or more, regretting that there was about to occur a break in the ranks of the heads of the various departments who had taken part in these occasions and in a few well chosen words presented Mr. Robert E. Murphy, overseer of the dyeing department, a beautiful gold watch and chain suitably engraved. Mr. Murphy, who has been connected with the Mohair Plush company for 27 years, retires to take up his residence in Florida and will carry with him the esteem of all with whom he has come in contact while in Lowell.

Musical numbers were given by Messrs. Hird and Houghton and Mr. Frank Orrell. Harry Bliss entertained with a talk on his experiences in France.

Later a bowling match between teams captained by Messrs. Southam and Harrison took place, the latter aggregation winning the contest. The affair was brought to a close with a theatre party in Boston.

GREEK SUMMER SCHOOL ENDS AFTER VERY SUCCESSFUL SEASON

The Greek summer school which has been conducted for the past six weeks in Pilgrim chapel, Market street, under the direction of Rev. Stephen Valisee has been brought to a close after a most successful season. The teachers were Miss Mabel Woodward and Miss Edith Cove. There were 55 children enrolled and the daily average attendance was 28. The curriculum consisted of Bible stories, songs, games, and calisthenics, as well as various forms of handicraft. In connection with the closing exercises held recently there was an exhibition of the work done by the children. The following program was also carried out:

Song: "How Do Robins Build Their Nests?"

He urged that a joint secretariat be set up in the League of Nations to protect citizens of all nations instead of having a single secretariat "in the shadow of the steps of Westminster." The present form of the league compels general sympathy with the "imperialistic ambitions of England," he declared.

Millions Walk

the Bronx suffered most. Many, despairing of ever reaching the financial tip of the island by other than extraordinary means, twice crossed the Hudson in a three-hour trip to their offices. Ferrying from 125th street to Fort Lee, they made their way down the Jersey side to the Hudson tubes and thence recrossed to Manhattan.

Service on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit subway entering Manhattan—the only underground in operation on the island—was increased 25 per cent. because of the strike, while the Hudson and East river ferryboat lines hastily reorganized their schedules, plying back and forth as rapidly as it was possible to take on passengers and discharge them.

But New York found that, with its main traffic arteries crippled, it was a difficult task to find extra means to handle the 1,260,000 passengers carried each day by the subways and the 1,111,000 by the elevated.

The first disorder attending the strike occurred this morning at the Interborough power house at 74th street and the East river, when two men leaving the building were surrounded by 100 strikers who demanded whether they had been working there. Police, with drawn clubs, charged the crowd and dispersed them.

City Turns Democratic

Splashing through the rain were speeding taxis and private automobiles. Strike and storm afforded the city an opportunity to display its industrial democracy for brokers and financiers motoring to Wall street, gave a "lift" to as many clerks and stenographers as they could carry. In many cases the owner of the car seated himself beside his chauffeur, leaving the dry comfort of closed cars for girl employees.

Many offices and stores were late in opening. Almost every employee was late and it was not until 10 o'clock that lower Broadway took on its usual business-day appearance.

More than 2,000,000 persons, who ordinarily travel daily over the Interborough Rapid Transit Co.'s subway and elevated lines in Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens, today either took slow moving surface cars and improvised conveyances, or walked to their work as a result of the strike of the company's 14,000 employees for a 50 per cent. increase in wages. As yesterday when the strike became effective, not a wheel turned on the company's 250 miles of track.

Worst Traffic Snarl in History

The stoppage of the main arteries of travel caused the worst traffic snarl in the history of the city. The narrow streets in downtown New York were congested during the early morning hours. Thousands of jitneys and busses, operated by the city, filled beyond capacity with workers, clogged the thoroughfares. Thousands fought in vain for standing room on each overloaded trolley. All vehicles moved at a snail's pace. Residents on the outer fringe of the city were unable to reach their places of employment until many hours after their usual time and Industrial New York was crippled in consequence.

The New York Central railroad operated 25 extra trains of 10 cars each between Hudson and Harlem river points to the Grand Central station. The 50,000 extra passengers carried on these trains, in addition to the regular traffic, caused an unprecedented congestion at the great terminal.

Fleets of ferries and other craft, pressed hurriedly into service, plied the North and East rivers, carrying passengers between the upper and lower ends of Manhattan island for the first time in many years.

More than 6000 policemen guarded the company's property and endeavored to control the tide of humanity sweeping through the streets. Notwithstanding the confusion, there was little disorder as the crowds appeared to take their inconvenience good naturedly.

Hope Strike to End Today

An effort to reach an agreement between the Interborough officials and the strike leaders will be made this afternoon at a conference with Public Service Commission Nixon. Mr. Nixon expressed the hope that a compromise might be effected, basing his hope on a statement attributed to President Connolly of the Brotherhood, that although the men had made demands for an increase of 50 per cent in wages, the strike would not have been called had the company offered a raise of 20 per cent. In the unsuccessful negotiations last week, a 10 per cent increase was offered.

District Attorney Martin of Bronx county today began an investigation into reports that strikers had informed policemen that they did not care how long the strike lasted, because they were being paid anyway, and that certain loyal employees who reported for work yesterday were told by officials to leave the railway yards, because a strike was in progress. Names of these strikers are being sought by the prosecutor, who declares that if the reports are true, he would call an extra session of the grand jury to conduct an inquiry into the case.

City officials and others who have charged that there was collusion between the Interborough company and its striking employees to obtain a fare increase by the strike, said that the company has not attempted to operate any of its subway or elevated lines since the strike was called.

The city operated several motor bus lines over established subway routes, charging a 10 cent fare, but there was considerable profiteering among owners of private busses, trucks and automobiles, who taxed their passengers from 25 cents to a dollar for a ride.

Embassy to Get Busy

The American embassy at Mexico City was instructed today by the state department immediately to call upon the Mexican government for quick action to effect the release of Lieut. Paul Davis and Harold G. Peterson. American army aviators who were captured by Mexican bandits near Candelaria, Tex., while patrolling the border and who are threatened with death unless $15,000 ransom is paid today.

The state department's announcement said: "The instructions pointed out the seriousness with which the United States government views this situation and called for immediate adequate action."

The American consul at Juarez, also was instructed to take all possible steps with the Mexican authorities there to secure release and protection of the officers.

State department officials said the ransom demand would be paid as soon as information could be had as to where and to whom the money was to be delivered. It has not been decided whether the United States would furnish the sum and charge it against the Carranza government, or call upon the Mexican government to pay it direct.

Most Serious Matter Yet

Official reports from Major General Dickman, commander of the southern department, concerning the detention of the aviators were received today at the war department, but Secretary Baker refused to make them public, saying the state department had entire supervision over the matter.

The capture and detention of the army fliers is considered by officials here to be essentially different from other cases of American citizens who have been held for ransom. Members of the military forces of a country, especially when in uniform, are direct representatives of their government. It was said, and any injury or affront to them is regarded as a breach of international law.

Relations at High Tension

Coming close on the heels of the state department's virtual ultimatum to the Carranza government that unless steps were taken to stop murder of American citizens and for protection of their rights, a radical change in the attitude of this government toward Mexico would be adopted, news that two American army aviators were being held by Mexican bandits for $15,000 ransom, with death as the alternative, caused the already strained relations between the two countries to be regarded here today as having reached a stage bordering on the acute.

There was no statement early today of what steps had been taken or were to be taken either by the state or war departments. However, it was regarded as imperative that some action be taken at once, as the demands of the bandits required that the ransom be paid today.

It was recalled that recently in two cases in which civilians were held as hostages ransoms were paid with the approval of the state department and belief was expressed that this course would be followed in the case of the two aviators.

Ransom Money Secured

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 18.—Every effort was being made today to expedite the rescue of Lieut. Paul H. Davis and Harold G. Peterson, aviators of the United States army, who are held for a ransom of $15,000 by Mexican bandits somewhere in Mexico, south of the Big Bend district of West Texas.

While no official announcement was made by the military authorities, it was understood that the ransom money had been arranged for at a local bank and that a messenger would be started during the day for Candelaria, Tex., where he would receive instructions about handing over the gold to an agent of the bandits. Caltiemea attending a cowboy camp meeting at Fort Davis, Tex., also raised $15,000 in 15 minutes Sunday, and placed it at the disposal of the military authorities.

After eight days of suspense since the aviators patrolling the border disappeared, messages were received by military authorities at Marfa, Tex., yesterday, demanding payment of the ransom in gold to Dawkins Kilpatrick of Candelaria, Tex., before tonight or the Americans would be killed, according to the message. Another message, signed by the aviators, accompanied the demand for the ransom. In which they stated practically the same facts as contained in the message from the bandit leader.

They also sent messages to their relatives in Strathmore, Cal., and Hutchinson, Minn., urging them to see that the ransom was raised at once. Another message was later sent to Candelaria, Tex., addressed to Dawkins Kilpatrick, an American, and signed by one of the bandit band, saying they would kill the aviators if there were any signs that the American military forces were preparing to pursue the bandits.

Replies were received from the parents of Lieut. Peterson stating they would furnish the ransom demanded for release of their son and his companion if the government failed to furnish the money, according to messages from Marfa. These replies were immediately given to a courier, who attempted to reach the bandit rendezvous south of the border.

Whether he succeeded was not known here or at Marfa, early today. Developments in the case have led army officers here to believe the bandits are not far from the border and are holding the American aviators in some out of the way canyon until the ransom is paid, whereupon they will release them and permit them to go to the border. Nothing has been heard of the scout biplane in which the men flew when they were captured.

The Big Bend district and the Ojinaga district opposite it in Mexico, is one of the wildest stretches of country in the Texas-Mexico border. The Rio Rock, near Candelaria, is a gigantic escarpment standing on edge like a cliff. The Rio Grande flows through canyons and in great curves along this part of the border, which has long been noted for its bandit activities. It is over this same Rio Rock near Candelaria, that the Mexican bandits rode to raid the Brille ranch Christmas day, 1917, when they caught the American stage driver going to Candelaria, hanged him and cut his throat. Chico Cano, one of the leaders in this raid, is a member of the band believed to be against the order of the Mexican

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Hope for settlement of the strike of 14,000 employees of the Interborough Rapid Transit Co., which has caused a complete suspension of subway and elevated traffic in Manhattan since yesterday and forced more than two million persons to use other means of conveyance, centered this afternoon in a conference between Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon and representatives of the strikers and the company.

Governor Smith, who arrived here last night from Albany in an effort to bring about a settlement, conferred with Commissioner Nixon before his meeting with the men and their employers.

Then men's principal demands are a 50 per cent wage increase and an 8-hour day.

Meanwhile Mayor Hylan has undertaken the unique and difficult task of attempting to arbitrate the strike by mail, calling upon the officials of the company for the names and addresses of all their employees in order that he might make a personal appeal to them to submit their differences to arbitration.

The mayor took this action after receiving a letter purporting to have been written by 11 employees of the company, stating that they were not in sympathy with the strike and charging their leaders with being in collusion with company officials.

"We represent 11 workers only, but there are hundreds of others just like us," the letter said. A grand jury investigation into the financial condition of the Interborough was forecast today when representatives of District Attorney Swann, armed with grand jury subpoenas, visited the offices of Barclay, Parsons & Klapp, engineers, for the purpose of obtaining data on which was said to have been based a letter written last August by Theodore P. Shonts, head of the company, to J. P. Morgan & Co., at the time the Interborough disposed of more than $33,000,000 in short term notes through the Morgan firm.

Despite the fact that this letter stated that the "experience of the past would justify the expectation of continued expansion of traffic and earnings of the enlarged rapid transit system," based on a five cent fare, with "full allowance made for the unfavorable conditions brought about by the war," the company now is asking an eight cent fare on the ground that it faces a deficit.

NO INCREASE IN WATER RATES

Commissioner Morse Emphatically Denies Report of Contemplated Boost

Declares More Water Being Obtained This Year Than Ever Before

There will be no further increase in the water rates in Lowell this year, according to an emphatic statement made this morning by Commissioner Charles J. Morse in denial of the report that such an increase was contemplated.

"There will be no increase and no increase has been contemplated," said Commissioner Morse, "and you can put that just as strongly as you want. With the increase that was put into effect early in the year there is no reason why the water department cannot be self-sustaining by next year. More water is being obtained this year than ever before in the history of the department and 32 new wells have been installed. The Cook well plant which was costing the city $700 a week has been shut down and will not be reopened this year. The water rates should have been raised long ago, but it was not until this year that they were raised. The improvements that have been made have cost money, but the department is now giving the citizens of Lowell more and better water than ever before."

With Mexican Bandits Holding U.S. Army Aviators Hostages Breaking Point is Near

Ransomers Start for Border With $15,000 and Military Detachment

MARFA, Tex., Aug. 18.—Authorization for the payment of the $15,000 ransom asked by Mexican bandits for the release of Lieuts. Paul H. Davis and Harold G. Peterson, was received here today and the money probably will be delivered late today to an agent of the bandits at or near Candelaria, Tex., it was announced. The American aviators are being held somewhere in Mexico south of Candelaria.

The authorization for the payment of the ransom was received from Major General Joseph T. Dickman, commander of the southern department.

Il. M. Fennell, vice president of the Marfa bank, left here early today for Candelaria with the ransom money raised here. He was accompanied by a military guard commanded by Major C. C. Smith.

Aviators on detached service at the Big Bend headquarters also left here for the Candelaria border, presumably to watch from the air for the return of the aviators.

Hundreds of Lowell housewives took in the bargain sale of government foodstuffs at the post office today and placed orders for so many cans or cases of this or that commodity, which will be delivered to them by parcel post in a few days. And not alone the housewives, but the husbands, brothers and sisters came too, all eager to take a crack at old high cost of living.

The hours at which orders will be received are, as previously stated, from 9 until 12 in the morning, and from 2 to 4 in the afternoon. The sale will continue until Wednesday night and if one is to judge from the brisk business of today, the thousands of pounds of

$15,000 Ransom Money May be on Way to Mexico Now to Save Officers' Lives

Seizing. Uniformed. Men
Makes Offence Grave—
May Demand Reparation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Vigorous representations were made to the Mexican government today by the state department concerning the capture and detention of two American army aviators by bandits, who demand $15,000 ransom.

This announcement was made by Secretary Lansing. It also was announced that a complete statement, including details of the capture of the two officers and particulars regarding the representations made by the American government, would be given to the public later.

The announcement when finally issued was as follows:

"The department of state has telegraphed instructions to the American embassy at Mexico City to immediately call upon the Mexican government for quick action to effect the release of Lieuts. Paul H. Davis and Harold G. Peterson of the United States army air service, captured by Mexican bandits near Candelaria, Tex., while patrolling the border, and threatened with death today upon failure to pay $15,000 ransom.

"The instructions pointed out the seriousness with which the United States government views this situation and called for immediate adequate action. The department also directed the American consul at Juarez, Mexico, to take all possible steps with the Mexican authorities there to secure release and protection of the officers.

"The attention of the department was called to the Davis case late last night by Representative Barbour

WESTFORD HERO RETURNS

Sergt. Bicknell, Wins D.S.C.,
Croix de Guerre and Military
Medal

Wearing a Croix de Guerre Distinguished Service Cross and Military medal, awarded in recognition of his achievement when he rescued a captured machine gun crew single handed, several of whom he killed or took prisoner, Sergt. Leroy Bicknell, of Main street, Westford, arrived in New York City today on the steamer Agmemnon.

Sergt. Bicknell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bicknell, of Westford, and enlisted in June, 1917. He went overseas the following winter, where he was assigned to Co. D, Ninth Machine Gun Battalion. He saw service on several fronts, but came through it all without a scratch. His parents received a letter from him two weeks ago from Germany, in which he wrote that he was in the best of health and expected to be home soon. Sergt. Bicknell is 25 years of age.

SEA MUST YIELD HOARD OF GOLD

English Adventurers Turn
Next to Sunken Treasure
Ships With War Thrill Gone

Science May Aid Fight to
Recover Paul Kruger's
Millions

LONDON, Aug. 2. (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—To recover more than $3,000,000 in gold, part of the fortune of the late Oom Paul Kruger, once president of the Transvaal, which is believed to be contained in the hold of the bark Dorothea, sunk on Tenedos reef, off the coast of Zanzibar, is one of the projects which may be revived as a result of improvement in the science of salvaging sunken ships. The Dorothea is named among the list of wrecks of eight treasure ships located off the African coast which are regarded by one leading expert as mostly likely for salvage.

The gold in the Dorothea is reported to have been shipped by Kruger some time prior to 1901. He was once credited with a fortune of $2,750,000. Some years ago, a syndicate was organized to attempt its recovery and a government steamer, the Alfred Noble, was sent to do the work of salvage, but failed.

Now that the war is over, men not content with the ordinary rewards of peace-time industry are planning to renew the great adventure of seeking to salvage gold from the wrecks of treasure ships long since lost. The science of salvaging sunken vessels has reached the point where some experts believe the next few years will see much of the fabled wealth of the ocean's bed brought to the surface. Wrecks of treasure ships lost more than 100 years ago, are being located and preparations are being made to bring ingots of precious metal to the surface.

Captain A. P. Gardiner, a salvage expert, has located 38 hulls of sunken vessels off the coast of South Africa, and believes that one-quarter of them may be redeemed. Eight of the ships selected as susceptible of salvage, with their location and value of contents, are given as follows: The Grosvenor, on the Penderland coast, $750,000; Ariston, Marcus bay, $1,000,000; Birkenhead, Birkenhead reef, $3,900,000; Atlas, East coast, $3,500,000; Dorothea, Tenedos reef, $2,260,000; Thunderbolt, Thunderbolt reef, $2,750,000; Abernethy, Black Rock, $900,000; and Meresteln, Jutland Island, $700,000.

GREEKS PLAN TO BUILD NEW SCHOOL

If plans drafted by the school board of the local Greek community are carried out, Lowell will soon have another handsome parochial school added to its already long list of private educational institutions. The Greek community is maintaining a private school at present, but the population of the district is increasing so fast that the need of a larger school or an addition to the present one is being felt.

The Greek parochial school is located at the corner of Worthen street and Broadway, in the former Plunkett residence, which was purchased

The school board is now looking for a site large enough for the erection of a modern school structure, somewhere in the vicinity of the Market street district, and as soon as a suitable site is located, work on the erection of a new building will be started. The Greek community maintains its own schools at no expense whatever to the city.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Gaudette to
Celebrate Friday

Mr. and Mrs. Lestane E. Gaudette, two well known residents of this city, will observe their golden wedding next Friday, the program of the day to include a solemn high mass of thanksgiving at St. Jean Baptiste church at 3 o'clock in the morning; a dinner for the immediate relatives at the home of the couple, 34 West Bowers street, and reception in the evening in C.C.A. hall in Middle street. The reception will be public and a cordial invitation to attend is being extended the many friends and relatives of the venerable couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaudette, the latter formerly Miss Evelyn Labarge, were born in Canada. Mr. Gaudette is 75 years of age, while his wife is 10 years his junior. They both came to Lowell while still in their teens and were married in this city Aug. 22, 1869, the ceremony being performed at the immaculate Conception factory by the late Rev. A. J. Garin, O.M.I. Mr. Gaudette was an iron moulder by trade and he worked at his craft until about 10 years ago when he retired.

Five children were born to the couple, four of whom are living, namely: Mr. Fred Gaudette, Mr. Arthur Webb, Mrs. Oswald Turcotte and Mr. Alme Gaudette, all of this city. They also have 19 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"For one year I was miserable from a displacement, which caused a general run-down condition with headaches and pains in my side. My sister induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I found it helped me very much and such a splendid tonic that I am recommending it to any woman who has similar troubles."

—Mrs. Elsie G. Lewis, 30 Vernon Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Such conditions as Mrs. Lewis suffered from may be caused by a fall or a general weakened run-down condition of the system, and the most successful remedy to restore strength to muscles and tissue and bring about a normal healthy condition—has proved to be this famous root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The letters constantly being published from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

K. OF C. SPENT $9,550,000 IN CAMP OVERSEAS

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Disposition of the $17,000,000 received by the Knights of Columbus from the United War Work fund of $170,000,000 is shown in the report of the supreme board of directors of the organization for the fiscal year ending June 30, which has just been issued. The quota of the "Casey's" was $25,000,000. They also gave an accounting for $1,776,409 of their pre-drive fund, which was collected independently by them.

On June 30 the Knights had received from the War Drive fund $17,130,294.87, including salvage items and miscellaneous refunds. The disbursements of this were divided into $9,550,082.62 for activities overseas and $6,455,080.79 in this country, a total of $15,015,143.11, leaving an unexpended balance of $2,115,151.48. The monthly expenditure on war work approximated $2,000,000, so this balance has since been expended and requisitions made on the fund.

Of the $4,468,060.19 expended for activities in this country, $1,300,022.53 went over the program, including new construction and additions, rentals, operation, maintenance and equipment. The Knights had 178 buildings and 14 tents in the Eastern-Northeastern department, 39 buildings and five tents in the Southeastern department, 39 buildings and five tents in the South-eastern department, 152 buildings and seven tents on the Central-Southern department, 42 buildings and six tents in the Western department, making a total of 461 buildings and 32 tents. Eleven buildings were being constructed at permanent army posts on June 30.

Personnel expenses, including salaries, traveling expenses, uniforms and other equipment, but excluding headquarters' staff, cost the Knights $1,015,650.11, for a total personnel of 1131. Activities of service program, including athletics and sports, motion pictures and other entertainments, educational, social and employment service, cost $715,650.

Overseas the Knights maintained 125 huts and clubs of substantial size while other more or less ephemeral clubs were equipped and maintained to bring the total number of K. C. points of contact with the troops to 250.

The Knights sent 1075 workers overseas out of a total of 7414 applicants. New York state led with 232, Massachusetts supplied 116, Illinois 93, Pennsylvania 61, Connecticut 49, Indiana 33. Every state in the union was represented in the overseas ranks.

BUSINESS MEN FOR PRIVATE OWNERSHIP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Business sentiment in the United States is unanimous that government ownership of railroads must not prevail, Charles A. Posst, chairman of the railroad commission of the United States chamber of commerce, told the house interstate commerce committee today.

Sentiment, as shown by tests made by the chamber, is overwhelmingly against proposals of the kind, he declared, because of the experience with government operation during the war. Other reasons against it, he contended, were heavy costs, and the necessity thereafter of financing government extensions through congressional appropriations with consequent subjection to political influence.

What to Use and Avoid On Faces That Perspire

Skin, to be healthy, must breathe. It also must perspire—must expel through the pores, its share of the body's waste material. Certain creams and powders clog the pores, interfere with the elimination and breathing, especially during the heated period. If more women understood this, there would be fewer self-inflicted complexion troubles. If they would use ordinary mercolized wax instead of cosmetics they would have healthy complexions. This remarkable substance actually absorbs a bad skin, also unclogging the pores. Result: The fresher, younger under-skin is permitted to breathe and to show itself. The exquisite new complexion gradually peeps out, free from any appearance of artificiality. Obtain an ounce of mercolized wax from your druggist and try it. Apply nightly like cold cream for a week or two, washing it off mornings. There's nothing quite so good for an over-tanned or freckled face.—Adv.

The Fleisher Yarns in Diamond Wound Balls You Will Find the Put-up of the Fleisher Yarns the Most Economical Way to Buy Yarns

NOTICE

The price of Yarns is advancing but we shall continue to sell them at the OLD PRICE for some time to come.

You are saved the tedious work of hand balling, you are sure that the yarn will reach your needles with all its original softness and elasticity, you avoid the loss of good yarn by snarls and tangles.

The balls contain more yarn than the skein, each weigh full ounce or two ounces. A ball will therefore work farther and there will be fewer knots in your garment.

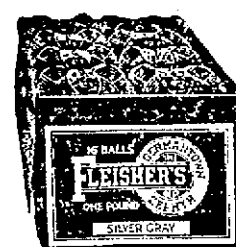

As the ball draws from the center you may place it in your bag and use it without further handling. By buying Fleisher yarn in full weight balls, ready for use, you will save time and yarn and secure more beautiful and satisfactory garments.

A. G. Cumnock Dead

der his supervision and their output was so well managed that their export trade grew to large proportions and at the present time their trademark is copyrighted in 32 foreign countries. This remarkable growth was due almost wholly to Mr. Cumnock's constructive genius and foresight.

Few men have risen more rapidly in their chosen vocation than did Mr. Cumnock. He was one of a family of successful manufacturers and one of five sons who attained great prominence. His entire life was passed in Lowell and so industrially was it spent that it may well rest as a pattern.

Alexander G. Cumnock was born in Glasgow, Scotland, September 24, 1834. When at the age of four years his family moved to Jonstone, 30 miles from Glasgow, where his father, Robert L. Cumnock, engaged in manufacturing. Eight years later, his father decided to give up his business and seek a fortune as a farmer in America. Accordingly, in 1848, with his wife and two children, he came to this country and, after a brief stay in Lowell, settled on a farm in Mason, N. H., where he reared a family of 11 children.

Mr. Cumnock came to Lowell at the age of 12 years and entered the Edson grammar school. He took lessons in draughting for several winters and for two winters studied bookkeeping and general business methods at McCoy's commercial college. He took additional commercial studies in Boston.

After leaving school he entered the Hamilton mills and was employed in the spinning room. In 1854, when 20 years of age, he was appointed third hand in the spinning room of the Boot corporation. Three years later he became second hand, and at the age of 25 years he was offered a position of overseer in a spinning room at the Amoskeag mills, Manchester, N. H. To prevent his acceptance of this offer, Linus Child, then agent of the Boot, promoted him to the position of overseer of the spinning room there. After six years he was raised to the office of superintendent, and the year following was chosen agent of the Quinbaug Mfg. Co. of Danversville, Conn. After holding this position for two years, upon the resignation of William A. Burke in 1868, he was chosen as agent of the Boot mills, at that time one of the most extensive manufacturing corporations in New England. He held that position for 30 years and developed the plant until its output was trebled in quantity.

In 1898, Mr. Cumnock resigned as agent of the Boot and assumed the office of treasurer of the Appleton company, and as its virtual head conducted its business on lines that brought uniform success. Just prior to his work with the Appleton company, Mr. Cumnock conceived the idea of a school of textile studies and the Lowell Textile school, which opened in 1897, was the splendid culmination of his plans. As one of its founders and for many years a trustee, the school owes much of its success to his unfailing interest and wise counsel.

In a large degree, however, his life was triangular, inasmuch as his interest centered in three points—his home, his business and his church. For years his devotion and philanthropies meant much to the old Kirk Street church, where he was senior deacon. The recent merger which united the Kirk Street and Elliot churches received his hearty approval, and he held the same high position in the new society as he enjoyed when Kirk Street stood alone.

He was president of the Mechanics Savings bank, director of the Lowell Gas Light company and of the Stony Brook railroad and president of the People's club. He sought public office only once, when in 1872 he was elected to the Lowell board of aldermen and served as its president and chairman of the committee on water works during that year. In 1895, he was appointed a member of the Lowell finance commission.

He is survived by his wife, Frances F. Cumnock; five children, Eva F. Cumnock of this city, Mrs. John Wood Blodgett of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Victor I. and Arthur J. Cumnock and Mrs. Norman E. Dittman of New York city, also three grandchildren and one great grandchild.

News of the Churches

Rev. Thomas F. Markham, D.D., who has recently returned from Rome where he studied at the American college, celebrated his first solemn high mass in this country at St. Peter's church yesterday morning before a large congregation which included members of his family and a large number of friends.

Large numbers of the faithful received communion at the early masses in the various churches yesterday. The usual summer schedule was carried out in each of the parishes.

St. Patrick's
Rev. Francis L. Keenan celebrated the late mass at St. Patrick's church yesterday and also made the announcements. There were many communicants at the early masses.

Immaculate Conception
Rev. Albert McDermott, O.M.I., of Buffalo, N. Y., celebrated the 11 o'clock mass at the Immaculate Conception church yesterday. Members of the Junior branch of the Children of Mary and the Third Order of St. Francis received communion at the 8 o'clock mass. Rev. Denis A. Sullivan, O.M.I., was the celebrant and Rev. J. B. McCarlin, O.M.I., assisted in giving communion.

St. Peter's
The 11 o'clock mass at St. Peter's church yesterday was a solemn high mass and the celebrant and deacon were priests who were born and educated in the parish. Rev. Thomas F. Markham, D.D., who recently returned from Rome after studying in the American college and being ordained there, celebrated his first solemn high mass in this country. He was assisted by Rev. Thomas P. Frawley, a boyhood chum, also a native of St. Peter's, as deacon, and Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan as sub-deacon. Rev. Fr. Frawley is at present stationed in Dorchester while Rev. Dr. Markham has not yet been assigned. The relatives of both young priests occupied reserved pews and the rest of the church was filled with friends. The altar was beautifully decorated with flowers in honor of the occasion. Rev. Daniel J. Keleher, Ph.D., pastor of St. Peter's, congratulated the young priests on their entrance upon their holy labors and also felicitated the relatives of both of them. He said that St. Peter's parish had given a goodly share of her young men to the priesthood and expressed the hope that both Rev. Dr. Markham and Rev. Fr. Frawley would have many years of health in which to serve the church. The occasion was a doubly happy one, he said, because it also marked the 10th anniversary of his assumption to the pastorate of St. Peter's.

St. Michael's
Rev. James F. Lynch celebrated the 11 o'clock mass at St. Michael's church yesterday and also made the announcements. Large numbers of the faithful received communion at the early masses.

Sacred Heart
Members of the Holy Angels' sodality received communion at the 8:30 o'clock mass at the Sacred Heart church yesterday. Rev. T. Franklin Wood, O.M.I., was the celebrant. Rev. Dennis Finnegan, O.M.I., celebrated the 11 o'clock mass and Rev. John Doherty, O.M.I., preached.

St. Columba's
Rev. Paul Waldron, a missionary who has seen extended service in the east, spoke at all the masses at St. Columba's church yesterday on his experiences. He is soon to leave for China where he will continue his work. The late mass was celebrated by Rev. Francis McNeil.

St. Margaret's
Rev. Charles J. Galligan, the pastor, celebrated the 7:30 o'clock mass at St. Margaret's church yesterday and the boys of the parish received communion in a body. Rev. Stephen Murray celebrated the late mass.

Calvary Baptist
Rev. Stacy Warburton of Y.M.C.A. headquarters, Camp Mills, L. I., preached at both services at the Calvary Baptist church yesterday. Rev. Mr. Warburton spent several months overseas and gave a thrilling and vivid recital of the deeds and experiences of Uncle Sam's boys "over there."

Fifth Street Baptist
"The Word of God" was the subject discussed at the Fifth Street Baptist church yesterday morning. Rev. Chas. L. Fowler was the preacher.

First Baptist
Rev. Norris L. Tibbets took for his sermon topic at the First Baptist church yesterday morning: "The Menace of Indifference." In the evening he spoke on the theme, "The Help of the Hills."

Christian Science
The regular services were held at the Christian Science churches of the city yesterday and the subject under discussion was "Soul."

Elliot Union Congregational
Rev. George M. Ward, D.D., preached at the morning service at the First Congregational church yesterday and took as his topic: "Doubt." Albert Edmund Brown was the soloist.

First Congregational
"The Limited and the Limitless in Every Life" was the subject discussed at the morning service at the First Congregational church yesterday. Rev. Clarence A. Vincent was the speaker.

Pawtucket Congregational
Rev. F. L. Piper of Boston preached at the morning service at the Pawtucket Congregational church yesterday, and spoke on the subject, "The Holy Spirit."

Highland Congregational
"Modern Christianity" was the subject discussed at the Highland Congregational church yesterday morning. Rev. A. J. Marsh of Jamaica Plain was the preacher.

Jewish Synagogues
The usual services were held at the Jewish Synagogues on Saturday.

Highland M. E.
"The Pursuit of True Riches" was the subject discussed yesterday morning at the Highland M. E. church by Rev. Francis W. Brett of Springfield. In the evening he spoke on "The Making of a Prophet."

St. Paul's M. E.
Rev. Walter Healy of Lynn was the preacher at St. Paul's M. E. church yesterday morning. His subject was "Then and Now."

First Primitive Methodist
"The Greater Dividends" was the subject discussed yesterday morning at the First Primitive Methodist church. Rev. N. W. Matthews was the preacher.

First Presbyterian
Rev. Joseph E. Kennedy took for his sermon topic at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning: "Tree and Chaff."

DARING HOLDUP NETS ROBBERS BUT 50 CENTS

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—A daring holdup in Postoffice square early yesterday morning, ended in a wild automobile chase through the streets and alleys of the West End before the alleged robbers were arrested.

About 2:30, Newton McCree of 43 Catawka street, was sitting in his taxi in the square when an automobile stopped a short distance away. Three men leaped out of this machine, leveled revolvers at him and demanded his money. He handed them 50 cents after which they jumped into their machine and drove toward Haymarket square.

McCree followed in his car. At Haymarket square he picked up Patrolmen Moyle and Anderson of the Hanover street station, and continued the pursuit. Finally they trailed the offenders machine to the Garden street garage, where the patrolmen, with drawn revolvers, arrested three men.

The men gave their names as Thomas H. Conroy, 30, of 48 Spring street; James J. Mulhearn, 35, of 1 North Grove street; and Arthur Negro, 33, of 15 Revere street. Usually McCree carries large sums of money with him and it is believed that these men knew of it.

PERSHING WILL SAIL FOR U. S. SEPT. 1

PARIS, Saturday, Aug. 18. (By the Associated Press)—Before leaving for Italy Saturday night, Gen. John J. Pershing, commander-in-chief of the American armies in France told correspondents that he expected to sail for America about September 1. Gen. Pershing said he would recommend that a monument be placed at Romagne, where occurred the bitter fighting encountered by the American armies in Meuse-Argonne battle.

CHIEF WELCH IDENTIFIES ALLEGED AUTO THIEVES IN BOSTON

The two alleged auto bandits arrested in Quincy last week, Joseph LaFarge and John Mahoney, were identified Saturday by Supt. Welch in the Charles street jail, Boston, as the pair responsible for the theft of Dr. John

H. Donovan's automobile, which was stolen from John street three weeks ago and afterwards recovered in Lawrence. A local young man has been held for the theft of the machine, and it is understood that when his case is called in police court this week the charge will be dismissed.

AMERICAN LEGION

Installation of Officers of Lowell Branch Tonight

Installation of officers recently elected by the Lowell post of the American Legion will take place this evening at the Community Service club on Dutton street, and all members are asked to be present. Plans will be considered for a city-wide drive to enroll all of the city's ex-service men in the organization, and applications for the testimonials issued by Massachusetts will be available at the meeting. Several other important matters will also come up for consideration.

LETTER TO ARCHDUKE IS CALLED FORGERY

BUDAPEST, Saturday, Aug. 16.—(By the Associated Press)—Archduke Joseph, the head of the Hungarian state, denied today that he had received a letter from Emperor Charles, as regent for the interests of the former emperor and his eldest son. According to the law of succession in Austria-Hungary, it is said, no archduke can ascend the throne while a male descendant of a king is alive or even according to those familiar with Hapsburg court documents, bears the stamp of forgery.

It was pointed out today on behalf of Archduke Joseph, that the archduke could not exercise the powers of a sovereign, but could act only as regent for the interests of the former emperor and his eldest son. According to the law of succession in Austria-Hungary, it is said, no archduke can ascend the throne while a male descendant of a king is alive or even

The letter, as published in Berlin, if the king has been banished.

RUMANS' CASE GROWS SERIOUS

Peace Conference Asked to
Act on Their Seizure of
Authority in Hungary

Taking Food Bought With
Hungarian Money is Called
Too High Handed

BUDAPEST, Thursday, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Brigadier-General Henry Bandholtz, American member of the allied mission here, is urging his colleagues to ask the peace conference to act quickly in regard to the presence of Rumanians in Hungary. His action was taken in view of reports coming in from all sides that the Rumanians continue to requisition food supplies.

Captain Thomas C. Gregory, chief allied food administrator in central Europe, takes a strong position regarding food and will permit none to enter Hungary as long as the Rumanians continue their seizures. This food was purchased by him with Hungarian money which he secured in Vienna when the Communist regime collapsed. Herbert Hoover, chairman of the allied relief organization, who is now in Warsaw, has been asked to exert pressure on the peace conference for immediate action. Rumanian military authorities have asked that the American direct wire to Vienna be run through the central exchange under control of the Rumanians. This request has been refused. Constantine Diamandy, the Rumanian high commissioner here, stated today that he would attempt to remove the censorship from the allied press, but complained that he did not have control of the military authorities.

Peace Council Concerned
The Hungarian situation will be discussed by the supreme council of the peace conference at its meeting today in Paris.

Frank Polk, the head of the American delegation, who visited the battlefields of France, over Saturday and Sunday, with A. J. Balfour, the British foreign minister, and Signor Tittoni, the Italian foreign minister, returned to Paris this morning.

Arab King Dismissed
Prince Feisal, son of Hussein Ben Ali, king of the Hedjaz, will embark at Beirut today to come to Paris and resume his place at the head of the Arab delegation. The prince is dissatisfied with the settlement of Syrian and Persian questions, according to the French press.

The aspirations of France in Syria are being discussed by French newspapers in connection with the Anglo-Persian agreement which is the chief subject of discussion in peace conference circles. Generally, the agreement is looked upon as providing for a British protectorate in Persia.

Until the Persian treaty is ratified, delegates to the peace conference think it is improbable that it will come formally before the conference, although it is of first importance in the question of the dismemberment of Turkey. The situation regarding Turkey apparently is deadlocked until the United States decides whether it will accept a mandate for Armenia or elsewhere. Several French newspapers in discussing the departure of Prince Feisal for Paris, declare that France cannot deal with "British agents" but must press her claims to Syria before all the allies.

MANY ACCIDENTS OVER THE WEEK-END

David Copley, aged 5 years, son of John Copley of 3 Rundlett street, fell while playing with chums yesterday and received a fracture of the elbow. He was removed to St. John's hospital.

Injured While Wrestling
While wrestling with friends in Centralville yesterday afternoon, Moses Houde of 79 Cabot street, fell on a broken bottle and received a bad laceration of the scalp. He was treated at St. John's hospital.

Alice Paquette, aged 3 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Paquette of 1033 Lawrence street, fell from a second-story window at her home Saturday evening and received bruises about the right hip. She was treated at St. John's hospital.

Struck By Auto
Gilmore O'Day of 68 Church street, a chauffeur, received multiple contusions on the back yesterday morning when he was struck by an automobile. He received treatment at St. John's hospital.

Compound Fracture of Leg
Martha Youkheera, aged 5 years and residing in Billerica Centre, was struck by an automobile Saturday afternoon and received a compound fracture of the right leg. She was taken to St. John's hospital. The automobile that figured in the accident is owned and was being operated by Walter Morse of 50 Grand street, Medford.

Boy Injured By Auto
John Rawlynovich, aged 6 years and residing at 12 Bay State court, was struck by an automobile operated by Charles McLaughlin Saturday evening and received a laceration of the scalp. He was treated at St. John's hospital.

Recovers from Poisoning
Andrew Thompson, aged 62 years and residing at 20 B street, was taken to St. John's hospital Saturday afternoon, suffering from poisoning. He was soon revived, however, and was later able to return to his home.

Seriously Injured

When his automobile turned turtle near the bridge at North Billerica Saturday afternoon Peter Fillipowicz, a resident of the village, received a compound fracture of the skull and he is now in a very serious condition at St. John's hospital.

GLARING HEADLIGHTS

Man Fined $25 for Failing to
Dim Lights and $40 for
Ignoring Order to Stop

The campaign against violators of the glaring headlight law, recently inaugurated by Supt. Welch of the Lowell police, bore fruit in police court today when Francis J. Cinq Mars of Ayer was fined $25 for failing to have the lights on his automobile properly dimmed, and $40 additional for failing to stop when signalled by Patrolman J. Clark. He appealed, and was held in $200 bail, which was furnished.

According to the story of Patrolmen Clark and Panning, who arrested Cinq Mars in the down town section the evening of August 10, the latter was driving a jitney through Middlesex street, toward the city, and his headlights were much more glaring than the law allows. Patrolman Clark signalled him to stop, but he failed to do so, and after commandeering a passing auto the two officers arrested him a few moments later on Church st.

Cinq Mars said that he hadn't been sure Patrolman Clark wanted him to hold up, and that he had been coming back to Middlesex street to talk things over when apprehended. In regard to the glaring headlights, he said that he didn't need any dimmers on the machine as his batteries were so weak that they only threw a moderate light in front of the car.

Asked as to whether he had secured a license to transport passengers through the city he said that his car was not a jitney, but a "hackney carriage," and therefore he needed no license.

In this connection Supt. Walsh said that violators of the glaring headlight law will be dealt with as severely as is possible in future. Out-of-town motorists who come through the city without dimmers on their cars will be told to talk things over with their chief of police when they get back home, he said.

Charged with the unlawful sale of whiskey Felix Poulter pleaded not guilty and his case was continued one week.

Eight men, who admitted they had been punishing various and sundry bottles of "Jakey" on the South common last evening, provided the next number on the police court menu. Six of the men had their cases placed on file, while the other two, who gave their names as Frank McCluskey and Thomas Ellis, were assessed $10 each. Patrolman Rutter made the arrests.

FISK RED-TOP TIRES

A New Tire

It is oversize, has an extra ply of fabric and an extra heavy tread. Its big size and its red top with light side-walls distinguish it from every other tire made.

Each month since this tire was put on the market it has been necessary to add to equipment in order to meet the demand.

Its popularity has been instantaneous and permanent and will continue to grow because it has features that no other make of tire is duplicating.

FREE SHANTUNG OR WAR WILL BREAK OUT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—It was the unanimous opinion of American experts on far eastern affairs at Versailles, that was must result from the peace treaty provision giving Japan control in the Chinese province of Shantung, the senate foreign relations committee was told today by Thomas F. Millard, an American writer who was attached to the Chinese peace delegation.

The committee called Millard, a writer on far eastern politics, to question him regarding features of the treaty provision giving Japan control in the Chinese province of Shantung.

The proposal to strike this provision from the treaty by amendment gives promise of developing one of the most bitter fights of the entire treaty controversy. Later in the week, other witnesses are to appear before the committee in its consideration of the question.

Concluding a detailed story of the Shantung negotiations, which he said came directly from delegates to the conference, Mr. Millard said:

"In my opinion, if the marplot had set out deliberately to put China in an embarrassing position, the outcome could not have been more unfortunate. China has lost out entirely on her Shantung claim. By reason of advice given her by the United States, she did not raise at all other questions in question him regarding features of the treaty provision giving Japan sign the treaty under these circumstances she is completely isolated.

"When Prof. E. T. Williams, for years head of the state department division of Far Eastern affairs, heard of the Shantung agreement, he said 'This means war,' and every American expert there felt the same way. I have heard, but do not know whether it is true, that General Bliss' letter to the president on the subject contained a statement to the same effect."

FOLK PLEADS EGYPT'S CAUSE

England's Ward Appoints

Fight for Political Freedom

Protest to U. S. Senate Alleges
Peace Treaty Allows Britain
to Keep Nation in Bondage

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—In a brief filed today with the foreign relations committee with the senate, Joseph W. Folk, formerly governor of Missouri, counsel for the Egyptian commission, charges that England, under the guise of a protectorate over Egypt, practically has seized that country as a British possession, that "in an annex to the peace treaty the status of Egypt would be made an internal question and beyond the jurisdiction of the council of the League of Nations, which council the Egyptians desire to pass upon the status of Egypt."

The document sets forth that the original occupation of Egypt by British troops, beginning in 1882, was claimed by the British government to be merely temporary for the purposes of suppressing rebels and collecting debts due Europeans. The British government, says Mr. Folk, "pledged Egypt and the world that this occupation would be only temporary."

"After giving a resume of the political history of modern Egypt and the alleged wrongs done in that country to enforce British rule in the last several decades, the brief recites the story of "the killing of 800 and the wounding of 1,000 Egyptian natives last April in the streets of their cities while holding demonstrations for freedom under the self-determination clauses of the peace treaty."

Egypt Fought Alone

Mr. Folk, who was formerly solicitor for the state department, and who now represents the commission which was named by the legislative assembly of Egypt, a majority of which were elected by the people, he says, calls attention to the fact that Egyptian troops, numbering 1,000,000, "fought on the side of the allies to make, as they believed, the world safe for democracy and for the right of national self-determination for all peoples."

Egypt before the war, he says, was independent for all practical purposes though under the nominal sovereignty of Turkey and subject to annual tribute to Turkey. On December 18, 1914, it is stated Great Britain removed the ruler of Egypt and appointed Prince Hussein as sultan, ostensibly as a war measure and assumed by the Egyptians to be such.

British Interned Delegates

"When the time came for making peace," he observes, "the Egyptian people naturally concluded that since, under the League of Nations they would be preserved from external aggression, the protectorate of Great Britain would be removed. But they were doomed to disappointment."

The Egyptian legislative assembly's commission, on the way to Paris to present that country's claims, it is charged, was interned by order of the British government upon reaching Malta. Released upon the recommendation of General Allenby, it is said, it reached Paris "only to find, with amazement, that a recognition of the British protectorate over Egypt had been written into the treaty."

In conclusion the brief states: "The condemnation of Egypt without a hearing before an international tribunal, if one is established, would mean the continued subjugation of Egypt to British bondage and continued mowing down by British machine guns of those liberty-seeking people who fought with America to make the world safe from military autocracy."

SHOE STRIKE CONTINUES

Reports at Big Meeting of Strikers State Few Reported at Plants Opened Today

One of the largest meetings of members of the Allied Shoe Workers union held since the shoe workers' strike has been in force in this city, took place this morning in the quarters of the organization in Middle street, and this despite the fact that two of the concerns affected by the strike opened their plants for business this morning.

The meeting was presided over by Business Agent George Racine, who complimented the strikers for their firm stand and urged his listeners to stick together until the fight has been won. "The fact that the manufacturers, after having their plants closed for three weeks, attempted to open up this morning, is a sure sign that they are weakening," he said, "and if you stick together and keep away from the plants, you will surely win what you are fighting for, better conditions, higher wages and shorter hours, for recognition of the union and collective bargaining in a shop means a great improvement for both employers and employees. We are not out to trim the manufacturers, for our aim is to bring about harmony in the different shoe plants of the city and that will mean more co-operation on the part of the help and a better grade of work."

Mr. Racine stated that the John Pilling company opened its doors for business this morning, and that according to the report of the picketers who were in the vicinity of the plant, only seven employees besides the foremen reported for work. He also stated that the number of employees who went to work at the plant of the Foster Shoe company was very small, as was that at the L. H. Spaulding company. He said that it may take 24 hours and perhaps three weeks to win the strike, but if the strikers stick together, they are sure to win out. He urged those who cannot afford to be idle to find work elsewhere, and the executive board of the union was willing and ready to do its utmost in securing work for the worthy ones.

At the close of the meeting, Mr. Racine stated that a few representatives of the union will go to East Cambridge tomorrow morning, to appear in court as respondents in injunction proceedings instituted by the Federal Shoe company. He also stated that the regular meeting of the union this week, will be held Thursday night instead of Friday night.

Rockeford—Smith

A pretty wedding took place Aug. 17 when Miss Christine Smith, a former Lowell girl and Mr. John B. Rockeford of Fall River were married at St. John's rectory, Cambridge. Miss Alice Hartley of Lowell, a close friend of the bride, was bridesmaid and Mr. Joseph Rockeford, a brother of the groom, was best man. The bride wore white georgette crepe and veil and carried a shower bouquet of roses. The bridesmaid wore lemon marquisette and pic-

SELLING MOTOR TRUCKS

One-third of the population of the United States lives on farms. Next to the gasoline tractor, no invention of recent years has helped the farmer like the commercial motor truck. It is safe to say every farmer who can afford it buys one. It is not perhaps too much to say that many farmers buy trucks or tractors just as soon as they can make an initial payment and arrange for paying the installments.

The Sun reaches many farmers in the vicinity of Lowell. For this reason it ought to make an almost ideal medium for firms selling all kinds of medium priced auto trucks to reach this class of buyers. Obviously every ad of a motor truck for farmers ought to have a picture used and the advertiser can go into the technical part of the proposition a little more thoroughly than is customary with the city reader for the reason that the farmer reader takes to the subject of mechanics with aptitude. This appeal to the farmer is one that ought not to be neglected by any of the numerous firms in Lowell making a specialty of motor trucks. And to place yourself so as to capitalize the possibilities of this proposition to the full, all kinds of motor trucks should be advertised in

How much longer are we going to let ourselves be lured into obeying this alleged "lure of the city?" The reason for this question and why it is considered timely is because the average man is up against this proposition. If he has steady work and continued good health and his family enjoys good health, he may just about beat the barrier to the extent of paying his bills and being considered a citizen in good standing.

But is there any better condition in prospect for him than this? Based on experience and observation of conditions obtaining now, for the past two years and with the future giving no promise that conditions will be very much better, we should say his prospect cannot improve under existing conditions. Suppose the average father wants to buy a home for his family. If he is a poor man his only possible chance is to save up $300 at least, and invite the co-operative bank to help him. The co-operative bank will do business with a man who has $300 and wants to buy a modest priced home. Yet, with the cost of living as it is now, how can the wage earner save up an initial payment of $300? Suppose he saved $300 and he or his family was attacked by sickness, away would go the home buying fund.

Oh yes, it is fine to live in the city. It is fine to live in close association with neighbors you do not know and who do not care to know you. It is fine to live in the city where you can go places—if you have the earfare and the price of admission. City life is certainly a great life—if you have a windshield. It lures you all right. Many people believe it. Many people do not have self reliance enough to become their own boss and depend on their own ability to meet the demands of a personal payroll. All through New England, Massachusetts perhaps more than the states in northern New England, there is a continued and steady abandonment of rural life, and a steady flocking to the city. Again, so much of the food we eat has to be hauled a long way at the highest freight charges the country has ever known, that it is no wonder city folk pay high for succumbing to the lure, yet farming was never so profitable as at present.

The average fruit farmer even here in the north Middlesex, will make more money from his fruit this year than the average wage earner in Lowell. But of course he is at the disadvantage of living in the country.

MR. CUMNOCK'S DEATH

The passing of Alexander G. Cumnock, for over fifty years prominently identified with the industrial life of our city, is a distinct loss to the community. As a mill man conducting a great cotton factory, he was one of the foremost manufacturers in the country. Having grown up in the business and applied his keen intellect and sound judgment to every phase of cotton manufacturing, he naturally won the highest success. He was not a college graduate, nor a graduate of any textile school, for there were no such schools in his youth, but in the practical work of the cotton factory, he became not only a master, but a director, an organizer of great ability and finally the presiding genius of one of the greatest textile factories in the country. He was one of the founders of the Lowell Textile school and for many years its leading benefactor, always seeking to make it what it is today, the foremost school of its kind in the world.

There were times when Mr. Cumnock was severely criticized and even disliked by a large proportion of his employees, but this was chiefly due to a misunderstanding of the difficulties with which he had to contend in meeting the business depressions and the fluctuations in the price of cotton mill products. They expected him to do the impossible, but he always tried to do the best he could for the operatives of his mills.

Not alone in the textile industry was Mr. Cumnock deeply interested, but in every movement for the benefit of the city and its people. He was a generous contributor to every worthy charity and every movement for securing better government for Lowell.

Mr. Cumnock and Mr. Southworth, the latter of the Massachusetts mills, were two of the most accomplished mill men in the United States. The factories over which they respectively presided may well stand as monuments to their preeminence as leaders in the textile industry.

"PRINCE CHARMING"

All of us have been reading about the visit to Canada of Great Britain's future king, the Prince of Wales. We believe no royal visitor could have had a better reception than has been given to the young man who, in the privacy of his royal family, is called "Davy." Newfoundland, and New Brunswick now call him the "Prince Charming."

He happens to belong to a family whose members used to be the hereditary rulers of Great Britain and the dominions overseas. His father is at the present time, king of England but he rules neither England nor the dominions overseas. That important function is capably performed by the party in power in England in just such part as it can get backing from its followers in the house of lords and the house of commons.

We Americans believe Prince Charming will find himself in a congenial atmosphere in Canada, eastern, western and middle Canada. All this respect and honor paid him is because he is the representative of an ancient institution. But with it, he may absorb Canadian democracy and self reliance and enterprise. If he inquired he might be courteously but bluntly told that Canada does not do things the way they are done in England but that final results justify her in continuing to be self reliant. We believe also, that one of the best things "Wales" could gain during his three months' long holiday in the Dominion would be to learn the Canadian point of view, for it is the point of view of a rising nation and a great people.

EXPORTS AND THE H. C. L.

We have previously intimated in this paper that the enormous food exports from the United States undoubtedly had a considerable effect upon this country's present high cost of living problem.

It is not strange to learn that this phase of the question is receiving a great deal of attention from our government at the present time. One afternoon last week a conference on this subject was held between President Wilson, Secretary Lansing and different government officials, with information on the subject.

We are sending overseas, not the

SEEN AND HEARD

Lots of people look thoughtful—then let it go at that.

Somewhere we read that money isn't everything, but that it makes good as a substitute. Right?

We agree thoroughly with the statement that a man who gets into the habit of never making mistakes is entirely too perfect for this world.

What She Wanted

Mrs. Newrich (in store)—I want a piece of music for my little girl who is learning to play the piano.

Clerk—Yes, madam; here is "Twilight" for 25 cents. How would that suit?

Mrs. Newrich—O, she's farther advanced than that. Why, last week she played a piece that cost 50 cents. Haven't you got something for about a dollar?—San Francisco Chronicle.

Followed Foreman's Advice

In the early days printers in most newspaper offices supplied the headlines for the items they put in type. Henry Cary tells a story of a man in a Milwaukee composing room who had a paragraph he did not understand.

He went over to the foreman and showed him the item.

"How'll I head this?" he asked.

"O," said the foreman, "head it appropriately. Don't bother me with such questions."

So the next morning the item appeared in the paper headed: "Appropriately"—Saturday Evening Post.

A Light Comedian

Two washerwomen were one day telling of the progress made by their various lads in their chosen work.

"Tell me, Mrs. Casey," asked Mrs. Clancy, "what's your son John doing now?"

"John's on the stage—he's a light comedian," answered Mrs. Casey.

"To don't tell me!" exclaimed Mrs. Clancy, "an' would ye mind tellin' me what a 'light comedian' is?"

"Well," explained Mrs. Casey, "in me son's case it's this: He plays a silent part behind a black curtain with his mouth to a hole, and in front is a candle, and when Alkali Al shoots at the candle, John blows it out!"—Saturday Journal.

Something For His Spare Time

A colonel wanted a man-servant, so he inserted an advertisement in the local weekly. One of the applicants who answered was an Irishman.

"What I want," explained the colonel, "is a useful man—one who can cook, drive a motor, look after a pair of horses, clean boots and windows, feed poultry, milk the cow, and do a little painting and paperhanging."

"Excuse me, sir," said Murphy, "but what kind of soil have ye here?"

"Soft!" snapped the colonel. "What's that got to do with it?"

"Well, I thought if it was clay I might make bricks in me spare time."—Everybody's Magazine.

Old friend, you know I love you dearly and sympathize with you sincerely. I know you must be disappointed. Let me give you some plans suggested by experienced consultants. Who thus presume to be your tutors. These lesser men of narrow vision who interdict your incision.

Truly, these mal-practitioners grieve me!

Not on my own account, believe me, for I am quite without ambition. Except as it might be my mission to alter my collaboration.

As subject of your operation.

Well, well, let these vain fools content them.

I have a plan to circumvent them. Let us accept their crass decision, and let us bring our decision.

Then, when I'm well again, and hearty, we'll plan a little surgeon's party.

I'll offer, for your vindication, my two-weeks' summertime vacation. A newly vulcanized intestine. And if your co-operation should venture again to cavil or to censure, Or, if some slip and its resultant Should make them, for the nonce, exultant.

Together we'll defy and thwart 'em And prove you right—at my next mortem.

—EDMUND VANCE COOKE.

normal supply of foodstuffs—normal, in respect to the amount that would generally be sent in the times prior to the war—but we are sending a quantity far in excess of the amount. It is called to attention that the department of commerce says but little of the goods shipped away are actually paid for now and this fact is largely responsible for the prevailing high prices. There is no doubt that an embargo on foreign exports if put into effect at this time would make the price of food immediately tumble, but unfortunately the United States is not in a position where it can put on such an embargo. This country must continue to send a large amount of supplies to foreign countries but doing this, it should be willing to accept foreign goods in return. The international scale of commerce must balance as nearly as possible.

It seems that London is destined not to have to remain in its present unprotected condition due to the keys to it being missing, for a very much longer time. The keys of the city were hospitably presented to Gen. Pershing when he recently visited the city. It is the custom, on the part of such visitors, to return the keys at the conclusion of their visit but when Gen. Pershing was ready to depart London, to the keys that locked up the town of nights, were missing. It was an unhappy, sad matter. But they have been recovered at Camp Devens, in the bed roll of an army officer. It is not yet positively known if his souvenir mania got the better of his judgment but if it did, we think his judgment is a frail thing.

Let us not fall into the mistake of believing Russia is a wholly bankrupt nation. It is said she now has on hand no less a quantity than 57,000,000 pounds of wool and it is valuable enough and badly needed by us over here so that we wish the soviets would quit soviets and allow some of the wool to be exported. It would be paid for in money of more value than soviet print-it-every-hour script.

Probably the slickest "re-write job" accomplished in this hemisphere for quite some time may be said to have been accomplished by Provost Marshal Crowder, just returned from a four months' trip to Cuba. He is said to have practically re-written the Cuban election laws. Why don't the republicans try to enlist him to re-write the League of Nations? Perhaps he does not want to run for president.

Let us congratulate the little town of Newbury, down near Newburyport. Her tax rate this year is to be $10 on a thousand, same rate as last year. It is believed she establishes a place of fame for herself in regard to tax rates, among Massachusetts towns and cities. Seems as if the cost of government in Newbury must have some bearing on the H. C. L.

These gas masks that are to be sold as surplus stock by the war department, are advertised to be sold at $5 each. They are also said to be a fine article to have on hand when peeling onions. Most of the Lowell housewives will not feel financially able to pay $5 for an onion protector. They will be thankful if they can get the onions.

The good humored English are saying that "America intruded into the war," but even as it is said, they lose no time in remarking that she, with all she represented and the material assistance she could give, was in every way a welcome intruder.

Mexico evidently always tries to go the world one better, no matter how big a story is told and when she claims the cost of living in her republic has increased 212 per cent since the war started, we are disposed to extend her the palm.

If the Ford jury possessed sense of humor it almost seems as if they would have assessed the Chicago paper a "jitney" as damages to be paid, instead of six cents.

Gov. Bartlett has invited the Prince of Wales to visit New Hampshire if he can. It has beautiful scenery and fine hospitality. We think Wales will come if he can.

If you are cuto at figures can you obtain anything from this, having an important bearing on the Massachusetts trolley problem? This state has 5000 street cars and 150,000 automobiles. Has this fact something to do with the Bay State's loss of revenue?

PARIS' PRETTIEST LEGS IN GOTHAM

With City Suffering From L Strike, Their Owner Finds Strong Limbs Have Call

Slim Chance for Her to Prove Her Claim With Show Shops Closed by Strike

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—There is a question whether tired little old New York, bewildered today by a complete tieup of her L system and most of her theaters being out of business because the actor gentlemen and the actress ladies were also on strike, could get up much enthusiasm over the arrival of a certain lady on the steamship France.

It is claimed she has the prettiest legs in Paris and her name is Mlle. Bourgeois ditte Mistinguett. If the theatrical strike should be settled soon and some musical comedy theatre afford a chance, Mademoiselle says New York might have a chance to pay to see how perfect Paris legs are looking this season.

But New York with her millions compelled to reluctantly walk to work this morning, from all sorts of distances, dismisses the thought of Miss Mistinguett's legs by thinking how tired her own legs will be by bedtime tonight. Those of a more humorous mind have some curiosity as to whether the enforced walking Mademoiselle Mistinguett may have to undergo, will have the effect of increasing the symmetry of decreasing the shapeliness of her legs. She says they are precious enough to her so that she had them insured for $100,000 before she braved the dangers of the Atlantic.

Besides this bid for fame in America, Mademoiselle evidently not yet having heard of the limb pichtrude visibly accredited to the Mark Sennett bathing beauties—one other feather Mademoiselle is disposed to hitch to her headgear, is that she claims she invented the Apache dance. Of course considerable responsibility must be hers if she thought up this particular gallop. No one over here got fussed up over the Apache dance. Jacques Charles, a Paris musical comedy producer, was also a passenger on the ship and he quietly certified to ships news reporters that Miss Mistinguett really is called the "girl with the prettiest legs in Paris." Nothing is said about her face, these same reporters told their city editors and then defensively said that she wished to advertise her legs exclusively, why should anything be said about her face?

Claim Prussia Evades Treaty's Terms by Making an Army Out of Her Police Force

COBLENZ, Saturday, Aug. 16.—(By the Associated Press)—The militarization of German police, allegedly contrary to the terms of the treaty of peace, has already been begun, according to information reaching American authorities here. In the city of Cassel, the police recently were completely organized in military lines by the Prussian government. It is said and now are equipped with steel helmets and rifles and follow the routine of a military company in their barracks. Of the 300 state police in office in Cassel, 100 have elected to be transferred to the new organization and the remainder have been given places in the civil service.

The ultimate size of the new militarized police organization has not been announced. Americans studying the demobilization and reorganization of the German army say that the significance of militarizing police in Germany, is great.

American officers have records of an announcement that the Prussian state government, quite apart from the national government was to organize "an Schutzmannschaft" or state police force, throughout Prussia, which would be virtually military units in garrisons with full infantry equipment, but would be under control of the minister of the interior and used only for the repression of internal disorders. These troops, according to the plan, were to be quite apart and in excess of the army permitted Germany under the terms of the peace treaty.

A semi-official announcement, however, state that it is appreciated that these troops are not permitted under the terms of the peace treaty, but the hope is expressed that the allies will be "reasonable" and permit their organization. The Cassel incident, it is contended by American officers, occurring long after the treaty was signed but before the allied and inter-allied commission on military control of Germany and begun to function, show that the Prussian government is proceeding to organize a military force, trusting that the allies will not take any action against it.

PARIS, Sunday, Aug. 17.—Moroccan brigands under command of their leader Raisuli, are reported to have ambushed a Spanish force accompanying a food convoy between the towns of Sagueda and Regala, killing 12 soldiers and wounding a number, four officers being among the casualties. The column, however, succeeded in escaping.

Raisuli is said to be organizing a vast entrenched camp between Tangiers and Tetouan, near Fondack. Natives report that an elaborate system of trenches and blockhouses has been constructed, all the works being modern in character.

ANOTHER GAUGED STEP INTO BIG LEAGUE

It looks like old times to see a Gangel in a Boston uniform. However, the Gangel in question is a recruit, and instead of being with the Boston Nationals, where that name will ever be a fond memory, he is with the Red Sox. The name recalls the baseball traditions of a generation since and forms a connecting link between the present and the game's historic past.

Gray haired fans who can still remember that dependable old Boston Brave veteran—Charles Gangel, for many years the leading backstop—for a while manager when the Walpole street grounds were still in their prime, will have the pleasure almost any day now of seeing a son of the justly popular veteran step up to the bat in a pinch or go to the outfield for the Red Sox at Fenway Park.

Old Charles is gone, and his deeds are profusely written on the National league record books. But young Babe Gangel, youngest son of a family which has made a name in the baseball world, is eager to continue with powerful bat the achievements of the Gangel in the records of the great national game.

Fifty years or more ago the fans of the Hub were thrilled by the announcement that the Boston club had purchased from Detroit the services of the Big Four—Dan Brouthers, Hardie Richardson, Charlie Bennett and Charles Gangel. All four were murderous hitters and stars in their respective positions, and Charles Gangel, in a Boston uniform, outlasted all the rest.

For years Charles' great work, behind the bat and his ability to hit so epidemically in the pinches were big factors in the success of the Boston club. Now Charles has "gone beyond," but a talented son remains to bring the name of Gangel into the limelight once more.

Young Forrest (Babe) Gangel came to the Red Sox as a first sacker, a position which his uncle, John Gangel, so ably filled for the New York Yankees and Cincinnati Reds not so awfully long ago. "Babe" is 18 years old, 5 feet 11 inches in height, weighs 175 pounds. He is regarded as one of the finds of the season.

About 6 weeks ago word of his ability reached Jesse Burkett, manager of the Haverhill team of the New England league. An open challenger, Burkett realized that Gangel was a natural hitter.

In the semi-professional ranks he has been nicknamed "Babe" after "Babe" Ruth, because he was able to hit them high and far away. Always a deadly left field hitter, Burkett at once made him a club in the New England league.

Young Gangel comes from a family of natural ball players. His uncle John, who led the Brooklins for a time, was a .300 hitter, and is now managing Kansas City of the American association. Two of his brothers, Rupert and Wesley, played for a while in the New England league, and the latter turned down an offer from a team in the International league. Two other brothers were wounded last year in the "bigger game" in France.

EIGHT CITIES IN POLO LEAGUE

At a meeting of the American Trotter Polo league held at Providence yesterday, it was decided to increase the circuit to eight cities with a 20-week playing schedule. The season will open on Oct. 15. Fall River was added to the league and applications were received from Fitchburg, Gloucester and several other places. All the clubs, with the exception of New Bedford, were represented at the meeting. The cities now in the league besides Fall River are: Providence, Worcester, Salem, Lowell, Lawrence and New Bedford.

This attraction is one of the best of the season and the club officials are making plans to handle the big crowd. The demand for reservations the last time these men were scheduled to perform indicates the high class of the match. Clinton will come to Lowell tomorrow to finish training for the bout, while Moy will be in town Thursday, according to word received by Matchmaker McDermott today. The other bouts will be announced tomorrow.

WOULD MEET HARTNETT

K. of C. Manager Ready to Talk Business

Nixy Coughlin, manager of the Knights of Columbus team answers Manager Hartnett of the Believes as to when the latter may expect some action regarding a game with the K. of C. and says he is willing to meet Manager Hartnett at the entrance of the Sun building on Thursday evening at 5 o'clock, make a preliminary deposit of $25 as a show of good faith and talk over plans for a single contest or series of games to commence as soon as possible. Manager Coughlin has requested the sporting writer of this paper to be present and receive the forfeit money from each manager.

Manager Coughlin further states that he has previously postponed the match action regarding this game because of an uncertainty in available dates, but that he now sees his way clear to commence such a series on Labor day. In regard to the statement of Manager Hartnett that the latter has not been able to get any satisfaction from either the manager of the Knights or the B. & M. car shop, Mr. Coughlin says he waited until 8:15 o'clock last Monday evening for the manager of the Believes to appear, but with no results.

K. OF C. WINS LOOSELY PLAYED GAME

In a loosely played game where earned runs were more scarce than rain drops on a duck's back, the Knights of Columbus defeated the B. & M. car shop team at Spaulding park Saturday afternoon by the score of 6 to 4. It was the first of a series of three games to help decide the ultimate resting place of the city amateur championship golfalon.

Devlin opposed Ducky Wheeler and the latter may blame his own poor start and almost continuous nervous defense for his downfall. The hits were even and the errors practically so, but the Knights took it upon themselves to eat at Jess Thompson's moment and got six of their hits for five runs in the first four innings, thus building up a lead which Jim Reynolds' team could not match.

A member of the defeated team, however, was the shining light of the battle—Henry Sullivan, former Lowell N. E. league team catcher, who pastimed in center field for the car shop boys. He was at bat five times and cracked out as many hits. He singled in the first, third, fifth and ninth and gleefully gave his program by dropping a double into left field in the seventh. Getting half of his club's hits and scoring two of its four runs comprised all his contributions to the work. Ed Cawley got three safe blows, two of them infield hits.

Jim O'Day opened the game with a smart hit to center and haggerty beat out a hit to center, but O'Day was cut down trying to make third. Haggerty was tossed out a moment later by White when he tried to steal. Murphy kept up the good work by shooting a single over second base and advanced when Schonborn muffed up Cawley's drive. Wheeler tried to catch Edward off first, but the latter dashed for second and beat McGowan's late throw. Murphy taking third. Walter Foye singled Murphy and Cawley over and went along to second on the throw-in. Green kicked Ray Foye's drive around the diamond, but recovered in time to catch Walter at the plate. Four hits, two runs and a working edge for the Knights.

Three more runs came over for the Knights in the fourth on two hits, a sacrifice, two errors and a base on balls. Devlin held the railroaders safe for four innings, but Sullivan's third hit with two gone and Wheeler on second in the fifth accounted for the first run scored against him.

The K. of C. got another in the seventh and in their half the car shop boys got a pair. McGowan and Wheeler fanned, but Dea dug out a hit into right field. Sully followed with a two-base blow down the right field line and when Sheehy fumbled Brown's roller and tossed the ball a moment, Foye's head at the plate, two runs came over.

Devlin was given a merry session in the ninth, but pulled out of it with only one run scored against him. Sullivan inserted his fifth hit with one down and traveled around to third on a wild pitch. Brown doubled for the run, but neither White nor Green could draw him past second base.

Jack O'Day umpired a nice game and although partisan rooters kicked over a few of his decisions, none was unwarranted. The score:

JOE LEONARD AFTER KILBANE'S CROWN

Joe Leonard, sensational featherweight is hot on the trail of the world's featherweight championship now held by Johnny Kilbane. Silvey Burns, Leonard's manager, announces that he knows of a club that will guarantee Kilbane $3500, if he will pick his title in a decision bout with Leonard. Not only this, but numerous other clubs have offered Kilbane as high as $1500 to meet Leonard in a no decision battle.

There is no questioning the fact that Leonard will some day get a chance at the championship. Although only boxing a little over three years, he has held his own with some of the best in the game. Among them, Joe Lynch, Frankie Bugas, Dick Longman, Jack Sharkey, Al Shubert, Eddie Morgan of England, Joe Tipton, Ralph Brady and Johnny Mahoney.

Leonard is an Italian-American born on New York's East Side. In action he is a real terror, and he has the look and like of a real terror. He is a fighting bearcat. All Joe knows is to fight every second in the ring. It is his record of fighting that has made Leonard a big club attraction throughout the country.

The Call'em

When Babe Ruth tied Saybold's American League home run record he stagnated for some time, for so long, in fact, that fans just about gave up hope that he would even approach Buck Freeman's world mark of 28. But the investigating air of the middle west has put new blood into the Red Sox mauler and in the past three days he has clicked off homers three consecutive times, until his mark now stands at 19. A half a dozen more and he will reach Freeman's record and if, by chance, he cracks out just one more Philadelphia will have the greatest home run king, head and shoulders—the greatest hitter of all time.

It is to be hoped that Nixy Coughlin will experience a change of heart before next Saturday and not force the visiting Pere Marquette baseball team to play on the South common diamond. The attendance Saturday was in the neighborhood of 600, possibly a little less, but surely it numbered 450. At 28 cents a head at the main gate it represented about $125 and as there were at least 200 in the grandstand and probably a greater number, the total receipts were about $150, plus. We do not know what expenses were entailed, but they could not have been very large.

On Mr. Coughlin's own say-so, the usual receipts at the common in a hat collection average about $15. But the main question at issue to us seems to be, playing conditions. It is fair to presume that the Pere Marquette team is accustomed to playing on regulation diamonds and to force them to pasture on any such sand lot as the South common is heaping insult on injury. There will be a huge crowd at the common to see the game and ground rules will govern the entire game. Sport cases to be in way of the names when it is commercialized to the discomfort of opposing teams and spectators and when the Pere Marquette pitcher sinks down into the pitching holes of the common and tries to stick the ball over a pile build of flapping newspaper and two handfuls of sand, several pertinent things are very likely to be said.

QUIMET GOES TO LINKS FROM SICK BED

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 12.—Seventy-five golfers who qualified Saturday, began play at the Oakmont Country club today in the 36-hole medal play round for the 32 places in the match play division of the National Amateur Golf championship. Weather conditions were favorable.

Francis Quimet, who was ill with tonsillitis and a cold Saturday night and Sunday, rested well last night and left his hotel early today, prepared to start in the play. Charles (Chick) Evans, Jr., the champion, was at the course early.

passed he will stand at the head of the mile class.

Quimet looked badly as he started his round, but his play was excellent. He was out in 38. At the 516 yard fourth, he hit two long woods, against a breeze, to the edge of the green. He was down in four. Evans was at the turn in 41. James S. Manion of the Public Links, St. Louis, the first player to start, completed the 18 holes in 78. He had two at the 161 yard, 13th and 226 yard 16th. Other early scores were: J. Wood Platt, North Hills, 39-41-82; C. E. Van Vleet, Jr., Greenwich, 42-45-83; Chas. Evans, Jr., Edgewater 41-42-83.

MORE WORK FOR O'HARE

Another duty has been added to the long list of board of health activities, according to Agent Francis J. O'Hare. From now on any person or firm in Lowell wishing to deal in methyl alcohol, wood alcohol or denatured alcohol must be licensed by the board of health. This does not include registered druggists. The license fee will be $1 a year and the license will expire on the 30th of April each year.

This is the result of an act passed by the 1919 legislature entitled "An Act Regulating the Sale of Alcohol." The salient features of it are contained in the following excerpt:

"No person, firm or corporation, other than a registered druggist, shall engage in this commonwealth in the business of manufacturing, buying, selling or dealing in methyl alcohol or wood alcohol, so-called, or denatured alcohol or any preparation used for manufacturing or commercial purposes which contains more than three per cent of alcohol intended for use other than as a beverage, without a license by the local board of health."

Applications for such a license in Lowell should be made at the office of the board of health in the basement of city hall.

ENGLAND'S KING CALLED "JAILER OF WORLD"

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the American commission on Irish independence, characterized the world as "a vast jail with King George V of England, as its keeper," in a statement issued here today, protesting against the alleged acquiescence of various state departments in permitting England to deny passports for their citizens to travel in Great Britain and its possessions. He urged that a joint secretariat be set up in the League of Nations to protect citizens of all nations instead of having a single secretariat "in the shadow of the steeple of Westminster." The present form of the league compels general sympathy with the "imperialistic ambitions of England," he declared.

FIRST YANKS AT THE MARNE BACK IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The Ninth Machine Gun Battalion, motorized, which was the first unit to reach the Marne in July, 1918, was among the troops which returned home today on the transport Agamemnon, bringing from Brest the first of the Third Division.

This division of regulars, whose losses were of the heaviest, originally was commanded by Major General Joseph T. Dickman.

Divisional units besides the Ninth Machine Gunners returning today included part of the 35th Infantry, "the Rock of the Marne" cited by both French and American commanders and part of the 18th Field Artillery.

GASOLINE, NOT FOOD, NEW HAMPSHIRE'S FIX

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 18.—More complaints against the price of gasoline than about food prices are the result of Attorney General Oscar L. Young's invitation to the public to offer suggestions for his investigation into profiteering in New Hampshire, it was announced by the attorney general's office today.

A. MITCHELL PALMER NOMINATED TO BE ATTORNEY GENERAL OF U. S.

Nominations
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—George F. O'Shaunessy of Providence, R. I., was nominated collector of internal revenue today, by President Wilson.

William R. Palmer of Oxford, Conn., was nominated United States marshal for the district of Connecticut.

The Bronx suffered most. Many, despairing of ever reaching the financial tip of the island by other than extraordinary means, twice crossed the Hudson in a three-hour trip to their offices. Ferrying from 129th street to Port Lee, they made their way down the Jersey side to the Hudson tubes and thence re-crossed to Manhattan.

Service on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit subway entering Manhattan—the only underground in operation on the island—was increased 25 per cent. because of the strike.

SHOPMEN APPLY TO THE FEDERAL BOARD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The railroad administration was notified today that the strike of shopmen was at an end and was asked to take up wage demands immediately.

AVIATORS RESUME TRIP INTO MAINE

SOUTH PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 18.—Lieut. Thomas H. Potter of the British royal flying corps and his mechanic, today resumed their flight from Cambridge, Mass., to Belfast, in a biplane, which was interrupted last night when engine trouble made it necessary to land here.

cause of the strike, while the Hudson and East river ferryboat lines hastily reorganized their schedules, plying back and forth as rapidly as it was possible to take on passengers and discharge them.

But New York found that, with its main traffic arteries crippled, it was a difficult task to find extra means to handle the 1,260,000 passengers carried each day by the subways and the 1-111,000 by the elevated.

The first disorder attending the strike occurred this morning at the Interborough power house at 74th street and the East river, when two men leaving the building were surrounded by 100 strikers who demanded whether they had been working there. Police, with drawn clubs, charged the crowd and dispersed them.

City Turns Democratic

Spashing through the rain were speeding taxis and private automobiles. Strike and storm afforded the city an opportunity to display its industrial democracy for brokers and financiers motoring to Wall street, gave a "lift" to as many clerks and stenographers as they could carry. In many cases the owner of the car seated himself beside his chauffeur, leaving the dry comfort of closed cars for girl employees.

Many offices and stores were late in opening. Almost every employee was late and it was not until 10 o'clock that lower Broadway took on its usual business-day appearance.

More than 2,000,000 persons, who ordinarily travel daily over the Interborough Rapid Transit Co.'s subway and elevated lines in Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens, today either took slow moving surface cars and improvised conveyances, or walked to their work as a result of the strike of the company's 14,000 employees for a 50 per cent. increase in wages. As yesterday when the strike became effective, not a wheel turned on the company's 250 miles of track.

Worst Traffic Snarl in History

The stoppage of the main arteries of travel caused the worst traffic snarl in the history of the city. The narrow streets in downtown New York were congested during the early morning hours. Thousands of jitneys and busses, operated by the city, filled beyond capacity with workers, clogged the thoroughfares. Thousands fought in vain for standing room on each overcrowded trolley. All vehicles moved at a snail's pace. Residents on the outer fringe of the city were unable to reach their places of employment until many hours after their usual time and industrial New York was crippled in consequence.

The New York Central railroad operated 26 extra trains of 10 cars each between Hudson and Harlem river points to the Grand Central station. The 60,000 extra passengers carried on these trains, in addition to the regular traffic, caused an unprecedented congestion at the great terminal.

Fleets of ferries and other craft, pressed hurriedly into service, plied the North and East rivers, carrying passengers between the upper and lower ends of Manhattan island for the first time in many years.

More than 6000 policemen guarded the company's property and endeavored to control the tide of humanity sweeping through the streets. Notwithstanding the confusion, there was little disorder as the crowds appeared to take their inconvenience good naturedly.

Hope Strike to End Today

An effort to reach an agreement between the Interborough officials and the strikers leaders, will be made this afternoon at a conference with Public Service Commission Nixon. Mr. Nixon expressed the hope that a compromise might be effected, basing his hope on a statement attributed to President Connolly of the Brotherhood, that although the men had made demands for an increase of 50 per cent in wages, the strike would not have been called had the company offered a raise of 20 per cent. In the unsuccessful negotiations last week, a 10 per cent increase was offered.

District Attorney Martin of Bronx county today began an investigation into reports that strikers had informed policemen that they did not care how long the strike lasts, because they were being paid anyway, and that certain loyal employees who reported for work yesterday were told by officials to leave the railway yards, because a strike was in progress. Names of these strikers are being sought by the prosecutor, who declares that if the reports are true, he would call an extra session of the grand jury to conduct an inquiry into the case.

City officials and others who have charged that there was collusion between the Interborough company and its striking employees to obtain a fare increase by the strike, said they regarded as significant the fact that the company has not attempted to operate any of its subway or elevated lines since the strike was called.

The city operated several motor bus lines over established subway routes, charging a 10 cent fare, but there was considerable profiteering among owners of private busses, trucks and automobiles, who taxed their passengers from 25 cents to a dollar for a ride.

of California, and telegraphic instructions were rushed to the embassy and the consulate. The officer's father, Dr. Warren B. Davis of Strassmore, Cal., was advised of the steps taken in behalf of his son. The governor of Minnesota who telegraphed to the department today regarding the two lieutenants and was advised of the steps which the department had taken. Peterson is a son of S. C. Peterson of Hutchinson, Minn.

Embassy to Get Busy

The American embassy at Mexico City was instructed today by the state department immediately to call upon the Mexican government for quick action to effect the release of Lieut. Paul Davis and Harold G. Peterson, American army aviators who were captured by Mexican bandits near Candelaria, Tex., while patrolling the border and who are threatened with death unless $15,000 ransom is paid today.

The state department's announcement said: "The instructions pointed out the seriousness with which the United States government views this situation and called for immediate adequate action."

The American consul at Juarez, also was instructed to take all possible steps with the Mexican authorities there to secure release and protection of the officers.

State department officials said the ransom demand would be paid as soon as information could be had as to where and to whom the money was to be delivered. It has not been decided whether the United States would furnish the sum and charge it against the Carranza government, or call upon the Mexican government to pay it direct.

Most Serious Matter Yet

Official reports from Major General Dickman, commander of the southern department, concerning the detention of the aviators were received today at the war department, but Secretary Baker refused to make them public, saying the state department had entire supervision over the matter.

The capture and detention of the army fliers is considered by officials here to be essentially different from other cases of American citizens who have been held for ransom. Members of the military forces of a country, especially when in uniform, are direct representatives of their government, it was said, and any injury or affront to them is regarded as a breach of international law.

Relations at High Tension

Coming close on the heels of the state department's virtual ultimatum to the Carranza government that unless steps were taken to stop murder of American citizens and for protection of their rights, a radical change in the attitude of this government toward Mexico would be adopted, news that two American army aviators were being held by Mexican bandits for $15,000 ransom, with death as the alternative, caused the already strained relations between the two countries to be regarded here today as having reached a stage bordering on the acute.

There was no statement early today of what steps had been taken or were to be taken either by the state or war departments. However, it was regarded as imperative that some action be taken at once, as the demands of the bandits required that the ransom be paid today.

It was recalled that recently in two cases in which civilians were held as hostages ransoms were paid with the approval of the state department and belief was expressed that this course would be followed in the case of the two aviators.

Ransom Money Secured

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 18.—Every effort was being made today to expedite the rescue of Lieut. Paul H. Davis and Harold G. Peterson, aviators of the United States army, who are held for a ransom of $15,000 by Mexican bandits somewhere in Mexico, south of the Big Bend district of West Texas.

While no official announcement was made by the military authorities, it was understood that the ransom money had been arranged for at a local bank and that a messenger would be started during the day for Candelaria, Tex., where he would receive instructions about handing over the gold to an agent of the bandits. Cattlemen attending a cowboy camp meeting at Fort Davis, Tex., also raised $15,000 in 15 minutes Sunday, and placed it at the disposal of the military authorities.

After eight days of suspense since the aviators patrolling the border disappeared, messages were received by military authorities at Marfa, Tex., yesterday, demanding payment of the ransom in gold to Dawkins Kilpatrick of Candelaria, Tex., before tonight or the Americans would be killed, according to the message. Another message, signed by the aviators, accompanied the demand for the ransom. In which they stated practically the same facts as contained in the message from the bandit leader.

They also sent messages to their relatives in Strathmore, Cal., and Hutchinson, Minn., urging them to see that the ransom was raised at once. Another message was later sent to Candelaria, Tex., addressed to Dawkins Kilpatrick, an American, and signed by one of the bandit band, saying they would kill the aviators if there were any signs that the American military forces were preparing to pursue the bandits.

Replies were received from the parents of Lieut. Peterson stating they would furnish the ransom demanded for release of their son and his companion if the government failed to furnish the money, according to messages from Marfa. These replies were immediately given to a courier, who attempted to reach the bandit rendezvous south of the border. Whether he succeeded was not known here or at Marfa, early today. Developments in the case have led army officers here to believe the bandits are not far from the border and are holding the American aviators in some out of the way canyon until the ransom is paid, whereupon they will release them and permit them to go to the border. Nothing has been heard of the scout biplane in which the men flew when they were captured.

The Big Bend district and the Ojinaga district opposite it in Mexico, is one of the wildest stretches of country in the Texas-Mexico border. The Rim Rock, near Candelaria, is a gigantic escarpment standing on edge like a cliff. The Rio Grande flows through canyons and in great curves along this part of the border, which has long been noted for its bandit activities. It is over this same Rim Rock near Candelaria, that the Mexican bandits rode to raid the Britte ranch Christmas day, 1917, when they caught the American stage driver going to Candelaria, hanged him and cut his throat. Cluco Cano, one of the leaders in this raid, is a member of the band believed to be holding the aviators, according to ad-
